Growing controversy examined

Congress ponders oil pinch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil company executives today were accused of "cheating the American public" as they appeared before a Senate panel probing the severity of the energy crisis.

The charges were made in an opening statement by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee. A statement submitted under oath by Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon, the country's largest oil firm, flatly rejected the charges.

Exxon "has not fabricated or contrived to bring about the current tight energy supply situation," Baze said. "The petroleum companies have made major efforts to prevent the shortage from occurring," he said.

Ribicoff had accused the companies of using the "fright and panic" triggered by reports of severe fuel shortages "to squeeze out the small independent dealers," and of using the sharp increases in the price of foreign oil to push up the price of domestic oil.

Ribicoff called for a price freeze on petroleum products until the severity of the shortage can be determined. Ribicoff also said it was time to cut off tax breaks which he said the oil companies were using to "deprive the American treasury of approximately $3 billion a year."

He said the oil firms had misled federal energy chief William E. Simon as to the severity of the shortages.

Subcommittee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Mich., said that some of the information the companies had submitted to his staff was evasive.

Simon was scheduled to appear before the panel today, but subcommittee staff members said he was out of town and would be called to testify at a later date.

At the same time, a joint economic subcommittee continues its probe of the accuracy and reliability of the energy data furnished government agencies by the oil companies.

The Senate leadership has said that the emergency energy bill that Congress failed to pass in the final days before the month-long winter recess would have first priority when Congress returned.

But Jackson now says that doubts about the severity of fuel shortages raise "questions as to the need for legislation granting government unprecedented broad authority to allocate and ration fuels and to mandate energy conservation measures."

Passage of the bill in the days before Christmas was blocked by a filibuster conducted by Republicans and senators from oil-producing states who objected to, among other things, a provision designed to prevent the petroleum industry from earning windfall profits as a result of fuel shortages.

Senate Minority leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., who met with President Nixon Friday, indicated that the Administration wants to pass a "barebones" energy bill free of such controversial issues as excess profits. A similar Administration bid for a stripped-down version of the bill was defeated by the House just before Congress adjourned Dec. 22.

Senate sources say they expect little action before Wednesday, when Sens. Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., and Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., the chief Republican opponents of the bill, are scheduled to return from a journey to the Middle East. The House is expected to await Senate action before taking up the bill.

Nixon is to meet later this week with Senate and House leaders to press for passage of the emergency energy legislation, which would give him the authority to order gasoline rationing and other conservation measures.

Aides said the President also would discuss the question of whether the crisis is fact or fiction "because it is a matter that he understands is of concern to the American people."

Saturday, Nixon said in a 15-minute radio speech that Americans would never have to pay $1 a gallon for gas or $1 for a loaf of bread. And he said gas rationing and hardships this winter can be avoided by voluntary conservation efforts.

He said the full force of the crisis would be felt if Americans eased up on energy conservation measures. If that happened, he said "there will be no

Kissinger returns from Mid-East trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returned early today from a 15,600-mile trip that produced a disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt as well as "real progress" in advancing a similar pact between Israel and Syria.

"The most important thing," he said, as the 11-day journey ended before dawn, "is that it may have marked the restoration of normal human relations in the area."

Kissinger is due to report to President Nixon and to Congressional leaders later in the day. He said he was pleased to have seen "that the United States is the country that is trusted by both sides to represent their point of view accurately."

Before heading for home via London Kissinger brought to Israel what he termed "a number of very constructive suggestions" from President Hafez Assad of Syria that could lead to negotiations between the two October War foes.

Kissinger also told Israeli leaders that Syria may be willing to turn over a list of war prisoners and to permit visits by the International Red Cross if the talks make substantial progress.

Privately, U.S. officials believe that a relaxation on the Syrian front is vital for further accords between Egypt and Israel since Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, for political reasons within the Arab world, cannot afford to move too far ahead of the other Arab states in dealing with Israel.

The Israeli government is to study Assad's ideas and then give its response to Kissinger.

Developments are not expected for two weeks.

"We will then see what follows," the secretary said.

O'Neill, Gillmor pull out of races

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two of the Ohio Republican party's consensus candidates for 1974 have decided they will not run, state Chairman Kent B. McGough said today.

Withdrawing from their candidacies were Rep. C. William O'Neill, R-28 Columbus, who had announced for attorney general, and Sen. Paul Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, who had said he was interested in seeking the auditor's nomination.

Both O'Neill and Gillmor were on the so-called GOP consensus ticket selected by the state organization last Tuesday.

At that time, McGough said most members of the state executive committee felt they were the best candidates available. There were no endorsements.

McGough said he didn't know if O'Neill's decision would mean his father, Chief Justice C. William O'Neill, would seek re-election to the Supreme Court post.

The elder O'Neill, in announcing his retirement, cited a possible conflict if his son became attorney general.

McGough said he had been informed by both O'Neill and Gillmor that they were no longer interested in seeking statewide office.

"Each of them made the decision independently and for different reasons," the party leader said.

O'Neill, McGough said, he would seek re-election to the House, where he is completing his first term.

Gillmor is in the middle of a four-year Senate term.

In a related development, McGough said Columbus attorney Sheldon Taft will be a candidate for the Ohio

Supreme Court seat now held by Justice Frank D. Celebrezze.

He said Taft would take out nominating petitions today.

Dale Davis, Miami County treasurer and president of the Ohio Treasurers Association, has voiced an interest in the state treasurer's post, McGough said.

Higher fuel costs loom for Canadian residents

By HOWARD ANGIONE

Associated Press Writer

Canadians are paying higher prices for gasoline and home heating oil, but their nation hasn't been hit with an "energy crisis" comparable to the one in the United States.

To keep Canada on a steady energy course, officials of its provinces and federal government will meet in Ottawa Tuesday and Wednesday to work on current problems and make long-range plans.

Their decisions will affect more than Canadians because Canada is the largest single foreign supplier of oil to the United States, accounting for about 7 per cent of U.S. imports.

Canada is the only Western nation which currently has the capability of producing enough crude oil for its own needs. Yet Canada exports roughly half the yield from its wells — one million barrels a day — to the United States.

Ohio solons face 61 bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's legislature heads into its busiest week so far this year Tuesday with hearings on 61 bills that range over subjects from stray dogs to taxes.

The House has 19 committee meetings on 40 bills scheduled in two days starting at 3:30 p.m., while the Senate announced seven sessions on 21 measures, the first at 9:30 a.m.

Daylight Saving Time and the energy crisis will continue to receive high priorities, but for the first time since the session convened Jan. 2, the lawmakers are going after some of their own pet projects.

The House Local Government and Urban Affairs Committee scheduled a Tuesday hearing on a bill by Rep. Pete Crossland, D-42 Akron, that would permit the impoundment of stray dogs, whether or not they are registered. The key would be a dog warden's judgment that a dog was "running at large."

Under the bill, the owner would be notified, if he or she could be determined, and required to pay any charges assessed against the dog as well as provide it with a registration tag if it had none.

Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, introduced the measure, claiming higher than anticipated revenues from the two-year-old tax justifies returning a portion of it to the people.

Republicans who control the Senate may get the bill through that chamber, but it would face a clouded future in the Democratic House. Majority Democrats voted down last week an attempt to increase the exemption in an amendment to another tax bill.

Senate Republicans also plan to begin working on their version of a bill to reform Ohio's campaign financing laws. The Financial Institutions, Insurance, & Elections Committee will hear initial testimony Tuesday morning on a bill by Sen. Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake.

He proposes legislation that would omit the controversial areas that caused a special session on campaign reforms, called last year by Gov. John J. Gilligan, to end empty handed. That conflict primarily involved the issue of the concept of a state public defender has been endorsed by Chief Justice C. William O'Neill of the Ohio Supreme Court.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, chairman of the Senate Ways & Means Committee, said his panel will hear Tuesday morning a bill that would increase individual exemptions under the state income tax from $500 to $750 a year.

west to 73.4 cents at St. John's, Nfld., in the east.

The home fuel oil situation is similar — prices up 7 to 8 cents a gallon to as high as 34.7 cents in St. John's with 2 cent increases in the West with residents of Vancouver paying 26.2 cents.

To keep Canadian oil from being so far below world prices that demand for it depletes domestic supplies, Canada has instituted an export tax designed to make the cost of exported Canadian oil comparable to the higher prices being charged by Arab nations.

The tax started last fall at 40 cents a barrel. It is now $2.20 a barrel and scheduled to hit $6.40 a barrel Feb. 1.

As Canadians watch the United States try to cope with its energy problems, pressure is mounting for Canada to come up with a long-range energy resources development program so the nation won't get caught short in a decade or so when its currently available resources begin to diminish.

In order to develop its untapped resources in time to meet its own future needs, Canada needs the money from continued oil sales to the United States, oil industry sources say. But selling oil to America could endanger future oil independence for Canada at the same time.

Document refutes Dean's testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detailed White House transcripts refuting charges by John W. Dean III that President Nixon knew of the Watergate cover-up before the March 21, 1973, date on which Nixon says he learned of it.

They show that conversations Dean took place on different dates between Sept. 15, 1972, and March 21, 1973, all took place on the latter date, the source explained.

THE SUDDEN thaw last week was welcomed by most Fayette Countians, but, combined with the recent rains, it has caused a great deal of damage to county roads . . . Fayette County Engineer Charles Wagner says traffic on some of these weather-weakened roads is causing the pavement to crack and crumble . . . Wagner requests that people lighten the loads they're hauling over county roads this week, to give the roads a chance to recover . . .

When Dean pleaded guilty last October to a single conspiracy charge in return for information about the Watergate cover-up, the special prosecutor's office left open the possibility of future prosecution for perjury.

The White House declined comment Sunday on the matter.

Neither Dean nor his lawyers were available for comment.

Specifically, the source said, the transcripts he read disprove Dean's

150 islands involved in dispute

LONDON (AP) — Senior diplomats believe that China's expulsion of South Vietnamese forces from the disputed Paracel Islands demonstrates Peking's resolves to press its claims to about 150 islands along the Asian continental shelf.

The goal is the oil that is believed beneath the floor of the South and East China seas.

Besides South Vietnam, Japan, the Philippines and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese regime on Taiwan could challenge Peking's claims to one or another of the various island groups in the region.

A rundown of China's main claims and the contestants:

—The Paracel archipelago, known in Chinese as Hsi-Sha, or "western sands." It consists of about 20 coral islets and reefs scattered over 80 miles north to south by 90 miles east to west. Its center is about 175 miles southeast of China's Hainan Island and about 250 miles east of Da Nang, in South Vietnam. Claims to it have been lodged by China, South Vietnam and Taiwan — which Peking regards as part of the People's Republic.

China maintains its fishermen have been frequenting the isles since the 15th century as if they were offshore territories. South Vietnam claims that for centuries sovereignty was exercised by the emperors of Annam, then France as the colonial power and now by it. But Japan occupied the islands from 1939 to 1945, and the San Francisco peace treaty in 1951 recognized them as Chinese territory.

The Spratly island group, known in Chinese as the NanShas or "southern sands," They are a cluster of shoals and islets about 300 miles west of the Philippines and nearly 1,000 miles from the Chinese mainland. The group is about 300 miles east of Vietnam. Saigon and Manila both dispute Peking's insistence that the group for centuries has been used, and occasionally occupied, by China. Peking has cited old maps and British Admiralty surveys, among other documents, in support of its claim.

The South Vietnamese recall the French building lighthouses in the Spratlys more than 40 years ago when France was running Indochina. The Philippine claim dates back to at least 1955. And the Nationalist Chinese for some time kept a naval garrison on one island as a demonstration of Chinese sovereignty.

The Senkaku islands, or Huaniaoshan, are a group of eight barren rocks and peaks about 150 miles northeast of Taiwan and 100 miles north of Ishigaki, in Japan's Ryukyu chain. They are situated in less than 600 feet of water and are within the area of mainland China's continental shelf, separated from the Ryukyus by the Okinawa Deep.

Contestants for ownership are China, Taiwan and Japan. The dispute flared most recently in 1970 after the Nationalist Chinese granted oil exploration rights to Pacific Gulf, the Japanese subsidiary of the American Gulf Oil Co. Japan challenged the award, Taiwan protested, and Peking entered the controversy with a declaration that "the resources of the seabed and subsoil of the seas around these islands, and of the shallow seas adjacent to other parts of China, all belong to China their owner."

U.S. nixed aid in islands battle

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese twice asked the United States 7th Fleet to intervene in the battle with the Chinese for the Paracel Islands but were turned down, official South Vietnamese sources said today.

But the informants said that U.S. planes flew reconnaissance missions over the islands today at the request of the South Vietnamese government.

The sources said an American civilian was missing on one of the islands, which were overrun by Chinese forces Sunday. He was not immediately identified, but the informants said he was a former U.S. Marine officer.

The South Vietnamese government has conceded military victory to China in their dispute over the Paracels, and called for an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council to plead its case.

Senate Watergate Committee studies future of hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A business-oriented panel has called for more open government and three leading politicians have asked for a quick decision on whether to impeach President Nixon.

These developments opened a week in which the Senate Watergate Committee is expected to decide whether it would hold further public hearings on the Watergate scandal. The committee's alternative was to write its final report and disband.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., has said the hearings would resume Jan. 29, but the majority of the seven-member committee reportedly is undecided whether to continue.

Expected to join with Ervin in seeking resumption were Sens. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., and Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga. The committee's other Democrat, Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii, is waiting for a report on staff investigations before making up his mind, his aides say.

Calling for a quick decision on the impeachment question were Sens. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and George McGovern, D-S.D., and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California. Each commented on a different Sunday television interview program.

Of the committee's three Republicans, Tennessee's Howard H. Baker, Jr., the vice chairman, and Lowell P. Weicker Jr., of Connecticut, would like to see the committee's work completed. Sen. Edward J. Gurney of Florida has publicly opposed the hearings for months.

Chief counsel Samuel Dash has insisted that significant new information his staff has uncovered on campaign contributions justifies a new round of hearings. Privately, however, some of the senators have said they will have to be convinced at a Wednesday meeting of the need for the panel to reconvene.

Investigation continued today, including an inventory of the Hookers' possessions, a deputy said. He declined to give details or say whether money was known to be missing.

The Hookers received an $80,000 settlement last July in a two-year dispute with the city over a portion of the Hookers' land needed for a reservoir. The Hookers at one time threatened to shoot anyone coming on their land during the dispute. Neighbors say the Hookers didn't trust banks but were believed to have deposited at least a portion of the money in a Greenwich bank.

Car pool protests Daylight Time

By NORM CLARKE
Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — News reports of children being molested and children becoming victims of traffic accidents while walking to school in the dark of Daylight Savings Time distressed Mrs. Renee McAllister, a mother of two.

"When that girl got killed near here, it was the last straw," she said.

She's organized a neighborhood car pool to protest DST.

"We were 45 minutes late the first day. After I explained why, the principal was sympathetic."

Nevertheless, she's sticking to a contract she and eight other Anderson Township families — including a principal from another school — drew

DIVORCE ACTIONS

Carol S. Collins, Mount Sterling, has filed in Common Pleas Court for divorce from Kenneth L. Collins on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married Sept. 23, 1961 at Derby, and have three children. The plaintiff is seeking child custody.

Verna L. Duncan, Bloomingburg, has filed for divorce from Danny E. Duncan on grounds of extreme cruelty. The parties were married Aug. 22, 1970, at Good Hope and have two children. The plaintiff is seeking alimony as well as custody of, and support for, the children.

Randall L. Dawson, 334 Fifth St., has filed for divorce from Brenda K. Dawson, Culpepper Trace Rd., on grounds of neglect of duty. The parties were married here June 5, 1971 and have two children. The plaintiff is seeking child custody.

Eugene Overly, 226 S. Fayette St., on behalf of his daughter, Marsha Eggleton, a minor, has filed a divorce action in Common Pleas Court against David J. Eggleton, New Holland. The petition claims that the defendant has been guilty of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married Aug. 5, 1972 and have one child. The plaintiff asks alimony for his daughter as well as requesting that she be granted custody of, and support for, the child.

JUVENILE COURT

Three youths were found to be unruly and were placed on probation by Judge Rollo Marchant after they were charged with sniffing intoxicating paint fumes. The trio included a 17-year-old Washington C.H. boy, a 16-year-old local girl, and a 16-year-old Columbus boy.

Hyer sells interest in Korn Insurance

Dana Hyer, 1006 Rrari Ave., co-owner of the Korn Insurance Agency, Inc., for the past 24 years, has sold his interest in the corporation to Leonard Korn and semi-retired effective Jan. 2.

Hyer, an insurance agent here since 1950, will continue his association with the agency on a part-time basis for an indefinite period of time and will sell and service all types of insurance which the agency handles.

Justice information system gets funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's proposed statewide Criminal Justice Information System has been awarded $546,636 in federal funds.

The money will go to the Ohio Highway Patrol and the state Department of Highway Safety to help pay for part of the system.

up. The neighborhood pact calls for the car pool to continue "until daylight catches up to the clock or until Daylight Savings Time is retracted."

She feels safer about her two young daughters, but disappointed the policy "defeats the purpose of DST. We're using gasoline we're trying to save. And by turning on porchlights, we're draining electricity."

But her concern for the welfare of school-bound children outweighs the need to conserve energy.

"The combination of darkness, traffic and children is inviting disaster. I got tired of the frustration and apathy. I had to do something. The kids don't have any voices."

A fulltime student at the University of Cincinnati, the 37-year-old housewife said school officials have declined to change starting times. "They said it would be too complicated."

"I don't want to get in a fight with the school. I'm not a rabble-rouser, a militant. I've never done anything like this in my life."

"But I just don't want my kids out in the dark. I've seen busy intersections in the morning that are frightening sights."

Her anguish intensified when an 18-year-old girl was killed near Cincinnati last week when she darted in front of a pickup truck in the early morning gloom.

"That really concerned me," said Mrs. McAllister. "I had to speak up."

She said the disenchantment with Daylight Savings Time is widespread.

A recent radio survey supports her stand. WLW Radio opened phone lines for four hours to survey the area on acceptance of DST.

"It was 700 against while two voted for it," said Charles K. Murdock, WLW executive.

Chamber retreat slated Thursday

A Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce scheduled Thursday highlight's this week's Chamber activities, according to President Fred L. Domenico.

Domenico said other events include a meeting of the $1,000 Fun Night committee at 7:45 a.m. Tuesday, a meeting of the Chamber's Ambassador Club at 9 a.m. Tuesday and an Education Committee meeting at 4 p.m. Tuesday to finalize the Feb. 6 Business-Industry-Education event. All of the committee meetings will be held in the Chamber office.

The board retreat will be an all afternoon affair with the directors scheduled to review the work completed in the first six months of the Chamber year, and determining the major priorities for the coming six months.

Slowdown saving lives

Certain factors can be expected to counteract in some measure the safety benefits derived from lower highway speeds. The gasoline shortage will impel a growing number of people to switch to smaller cars or rely to a greater extent on bicycles and motorbikes. Such vehicles are in varying degree riskier, to those who use them, than big, heavy cars.

When all due allowance is made for such factors, however, the figures just released by the

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Will we listen to Solzhenitsyn?

"I see," said the Foreign Minister of Ruritania, "that the publication of Alexander Solzhenitsyn's 'Gulag Archipelago' has been getting a lot of notice in America for exposing a terror that has been routine in Russia since 1918. Maybe your detente-minded politicians will begin to catch on now that Russia's greatest man of letters has figured it out mathematically that political executions under the Communists are a thousand times what they were under the Czars. When a Nobel Prize winner says something, it's listened to."

"But really," so the Foreign Minister continued, "you Americans amaze me. You never listen to any of your home-grown prophets. I have been coming to your country ever since the early 1920s, and it has been a never-ceasing horror to me that the surest way to lose a reputation in your Establishment literary circles is to tell the truth about Communist operations."

"BACK in the early 1930s two of your Moscow correspondents, Eugene Lyons and William Henry Chamberlin, began speaking out about their disillusionment with the socialist Utopia. They wrote some books that were just as documented as Solzhenitsyn's, even though they may not have been as tragically searing."

"So what happened? Your Franklin Roosevelt decided to recognize Russia, and the New York Times played up the by-line of its Walter Duranty, whose big forte in Moscow was his ability to stroke the back of the Soviet cat the right way. The word went around in New York cocktail circles to 'get' Lyons and Chamberlin, and after that they never had a tenth of the influence that they rightfully should have had. They were bracketed with your Max Eastman as 'gangsters of the pen.'

"That's the way it has always gone in your country. Your John Dos Passos, a truly fine novelist, was an idol among the liberals when he wrote sympathetically about Communist aspirations. But when he came home from Spain in 1936 with the news that Stalinist political murders had become a routine feature of the Spanish Civil War he lost caste immediately."

"He went on living and writing for 35 years after that, but somehow he never got the credit that was due him for doing excellent biographies of Thomas

Department of Transportation remain impressive. In November, doubtless mainly because of the gas shortage, traffic fatalities went down by two per cent over most of the nation. The corresponding figure in states which had lowered their speed limits was 18.6 per cent.

That is a whopping difference. It clearly gives the lie to those who continue to maintain in the face of all evidence that speed does not play a major part in determining auto fatality rates.

Federal law now on the books assures that speed limits throughout the nation will be sharply lower this year. Experts in the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimate that this will bring a reduction of from seven to nine per cent in highway deaths.

That figures out to between 4,000 and 5,000 lives saved by year's end. Universal compliance with the new speed limits will be a key element in achieving this.

Jefferson and others of your Founding Fathers' generation. He was a has-been in New York critical circles for having had the honesty and the temerity to expose the machinations of the Comrades in Spain. And when he wrote good novel about skullduggery in the labor movement in 1961 it was dismissed as the work of an old reactionary.

"I could multiply these examples many times over," so the Foreign Minister of Ruritania continued. "How many in your country know that you once had a courageous editor named Sol Levitas, who fought Stalinists both in and out of season in his weekly New Leader? Sol called himself a Socialist, but he was on to the Communists for all that. He had been Mayor of Vladivostok way back in 1918 as I remember, but he left Russia rather than endure what Lenin and Trotsky had decreed for it."

"Sol struggled to keep his magazine going all through the period of the Popular Front in the Thirties, when the liberals and the Communists were making common cause. And he never let up with his exposure of Communist methods and double talk even during the period of your 1941-45 'we're in it with Russia' wartime honeymoon. Solzhenitsyn's detailed accounts of what happened to 200 of his friends in Communist labor camps wouldn't have surprised Sol Levitas in the least.

"FOR THAT MATTER, your Richard Nixon knew a thing or two about Communist infiltration tactics when he was a young congressman trying to break open the Hiss case. The liberals have never forgiven Nixon for what he did to expose Soviet penetration of your government. It could be that this is the source of much of the virulent hatred that continues to hound your President now that he is in trouble over Watergate.

"Well, so it has always gone," said the Foreign Minister of Ruritania. "The sure way of killing yourself in your Establishment literary circles was to say things that Solzhenitsyn has just now established as irrefutable truth.

"Will anybody make amends to your prophets? I doubt it. Democracies are never grateful, and nobody likes to listen to a person who can truthfully say 'I told you so.'"

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, JAN. 22

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Under day's favorable influences, you should find new ambition and incentive, seek new ways to improve. Experimentation and new projects, well-managed, can advance.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 20)

You, too, have fine aspects, but there may be some interference with plans here. Stand straight, head up! And don't jump the gun! Hard work, consistency needed.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

No outstandingly impressive opportunities indicated, yet there are hidden gems of value available which you may overlook if you are too hasty, too anxious.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Lunar influences should inspire top-flight efforts. Especially favored: Educational projects, engineering, medicine and health programs.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Planetary aspects now favor personal relationships. This is a perfect period in which to cement old friendships and encourage new acquaintances.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Mercury's position suggests the revival of old projects if still feasible, and the launching of new ones that could better your course and outlook.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

While some influences are good, you are nevertheless cautioned against misinterpretation, overstressing and getting ahead of yourself in certain areas.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Avoid a tendency to overdo things

now. However, Mars promises advancement if you are resourceful and accurate. Exercise all faculties.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Tune up and tone up. Business, financial, and professional matters highly favored. You could make some unusual strides with your talents and verve.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Day should be generally good but, without personal initiative, you will fall behind. Nothing will be handed to you.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

There is a tendency to vacillate now. Avoid it. If you seem bogged down in efforts, take time to reorganize. New methods could help.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Some good news or friendly cooperation should aid you in perfecting long-range plans. Study new trends, developments.

PIRATES

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

YOU BORN TODAY are a progressive, keen-thinking individual — shrewd, adaptable, reliable and conservative. Against all this, you have a tendency to talk too much, which could cause needless enmity. Develop your reasoning faculties, your excellent memory and gift of artistry. Many great discoveries can boast the Capricorn-Aquarian cuspal as their researchers, assistants and final analysts.

Candidate raps speed limit cut

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A spokesman for William O'Neill, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, said Sunday O'Neill will oppose lowering Ohio's speed limit.

Rick Sturtevant, campaign co-chairman, said the candidate would hold a news conference at 2 p.m. Monday to announce the stand.

He said O'Neill would "advocate the State of Ohio demand documented evidence rather than presidential opinion on energy matters prior to the initiation of any statewide campaign, including lowering of speed limits, aimed at curing the alleged energy crisis."

Alien registration

deadline is Jan. 31

CLEVELAND — S.F. Perryman, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, points out that aliens required to mail address cards to the Government have until Jan. 31 to comply.

The immigration official urged all aliens who have not complied to go to the nearest Post Office or Immigration Office and obtain the annual Alien Address Card.

Parents or legal guardians must mail the card for alien children under 14 years of age.

Perryman advised that the annual address card is required each year from all aliens except those in diplomatic status and representatives of certain international organizations. He pointed out that willful failure to comply carries serious penalties.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Wonder of wonders, someone's finally come up with an intelligent, nonsense TV study of men behind bars. It's called "Parole," is on public TV tonight and you ought to see it.

Granted, these things usually are a drag. They either treat the inmate as some sort of weird bug, or blabber endlessly to the effect that most are the victims of society.

Taint so with "Parole," produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television and filmed at the Washington State Penitentiary near Walla Walla. Its approach is far more precise and revealing.

It zeroes in on parole board hearings for two convicts, one a 24-year-old logger in for burglary and two parole violations, the other a 42-year-old carpenter doing life for helping kidnap the young son of a wealthy businessman and asking $45,000 ransom.

The show poses three basic questions: When is a convict ready for parole? What happens to him if it's denied and he stays in prison? What factors weigh in the calculated gamble of parole?

The makers of "Parole" draw no conclusions. They let viewers make up their own minds. Necessary background is included in a minimum of narration by E.G. Marshall.

But reporter-producer William H. Wilson has the wisdom to let his subjects speak for themselves — the convicts, those in the parole process, a guard or two, a sheriff and, very importantly, the father of the youth who was kidnaped and released unharmed.

Neither prisoner in "Parole" is what I'd call a hard-core criminal, herewith defined as a guy who for various reasons tries to make a living at crime between stays in the slammer.

But would the prisoners on this show commit another crime if set free? Would you parole either man after hearing him out, reviewing his case and weighing the effects of more jail time?

Watch the program. You'll be glad you don't have to decide.

Factors underlie economic news

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Underlying a good many of the business and economic news developments today, and bound also to influence the future of industrial society, are these factors:

—Shortages of commodities. The energy shortage is only the nucleus of the comet; it has a long, long tail. Rising demand throughout the world inevitably will place strains on the supplies of commodities.

These pressures already are showing up in national policies and prices. Realizing their power, the less developed commodity producing nations are raising prices and developing policies of restrained usage.

Argus Research Corp., which supplies much of the basic research used by the investment community, gives several reasons why demand isn't likely to decline, as some businessmen have been hoping.

First of these is the new awareness by the commodity producing nations of the power they have in a world economy in which demand outstrips supply.

Accelerating living standards throughout the world, including the less developed nations, is steadily adding to pressures on supply. So is population growth and mix.

Communist nations of Europe and elsewhere are now emphasizing consumption, after years of building their productive capacity. China, the most populous nation of all, is about to add enormously to the strain on supplies.

And throughout much of the world the population mix is changing, with the biggest growth occurring in the 25-to-39 age group, which is where consumption is heaviest. In the United States that group grew by only 500,000 during the 1950s. In the 1970s it may grow by 15 million.

The problem of raising productivity without making work meaningless. The way the world knows best to raise output per man-hour is to mechanize and mass produce. But in so doing it forces millions into dull, unrewarding jobs.

Consequences of this show up in complaints about quality, in absenteeism and in poor worker attitudes, all of which reduce productivity and eventually or immediately lower the competitiveness of products.

With big government monitoring big business more closely than has been the tradition in the United States, who monitors big government?

A good example was provided recently by a U.S. Chamber of Commerce publication, "Washington Report." Last September it commented:

"With little fanfare, the federal government has completely ignored its own 5.5 per cent average wage increase guidelines while the rest of us have been forced to live under the rules imposed by the federal establishment."

"... last year average pay for all federal military and civilian employees increased by 12.8 per cent, which is more than twice the 5.5 per cent guidelines that the federal wage administrators have called for. Included in this is an average increase of 10.7 per cent for employees of government enterprises."

The mated fairy terns — also known as white or love terns — participate equally in the care of their offspring.

Mrs. Case entertains Conner Women

Mrs. Robert I. Case, 204 E. Paint St., entertained members of the Conner Farm Women's Club at her home Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. R. Carleton Belt, president, opened the meeting by reading a poem about winter. Mrs. Robert Pero, chaplain, gave the devotions. The Club Creed was repeated by all. Mrs. Maurice L. Sollars, secretary-treasurer, called the roll, each member answering by stating why they enjoyed membership in the club. Mrs. Sollars also gave the treasurer's report. Members were reminded it was dues paying time. Mrs. Kenneth Bush and Mrs. Maryon Mark were appointed to the flower committee and asked the members to call them when someone was ill.

Mrs. Sollars read a letter of thanks from the Veteran's Hospital at Chillicothe for the club donation at Christmas time. Mrs. Millard H. Weidinger, program chairman for the afternoon, presented Miss Maryann E. Sharp, vocalist of Sabina, and her accompanist Mrs. Walter Stackhouse. Miss Sharp has an outstandingly beautiful soprano voice, is just 18 years of age, and a pupil of Miss

Young Adults enjoy potluck

The New Holland United Methodist Young Adult Class held its monthly meeting at the church. Eighteen members and their children were present for the potluck supper. The Wesley Grace was sang prior to the supper.

The new president Mrs. Gary (Nancy) Kirk, called the meeting to order with the reading of a poem titled "This is Today".

The secretary report, given by Mrs. Ed Conrad, of the November and December meetings was approved by the class. The class also approved the treasury report given by Mrs. Don Conrad.

The past secretary, Mrs. Robert Bishop, gave a summary of last year.

Mrs. Richard Somers, gave a report of the preparations for the weekend retreat at the Lancaster Camp Ground for the week-end of Feb. 9-10.

March 28 has been set for the supper to honor the senior members of the church.

The class voted to have a "Bakeless" Bake Sale to help boost the treasury which is low due to the extensive repair work done to the beautiful stained glass windows of the church.

The class also voted to be available to do sale dinners again.

Virginia Van Der Voort, Wilmington. She has sung with the Inland Children's Chorus, Dayton, under the direction of Mr. Joseph Geiger, and has won excellent and superior ratings in state music competitions. Hampshire breeders elect officers

The Ohio Hampshire Swine Breeders Association opened its annual meeting and mid-winter sale at the Fairgrounds Sunday. Some 90 persons from all throughout Ohio were welcomed by John Gruber, Fayette County Agricultural Extension agent, prior to the pork smorgasbord dinner Sunday night.

Bill Powell, of Peoria, Ill., and Richard Picker, of Fort Jennings were featured speakers, and Ronald Jackson, of Powell, presented an excellent program focused on slides of Japanese farms which have been purchasing hogs from Ohio herds. Cheryl Marcum, of Grove City, the Ohio Hampshire Queen, was also in attendance.

The election of officers was held following the meeting and the three primary officers were retained from last year. Earnest Roll, of Greenfield, president; Ricker, vice president; and Jim Morehart, of Jenera, secretary-treasurer, will continue to serve in those capacities.

Daniel Worley, Mount Sterling, and Sam Brown, Jamestown, joined Don Gostomsky, of Troy, Cary Smith, of Jamestown, Otto Roll Jr., of Clarksburg, and Charles Williams, of Hilliard, on the board of directors. The two replaced L.D. Rader and Charles Andrews who had served for the past two years. Andrews, however, retains his post as a national director, and will continue to represent Ohio.

Turnout for the first day's activities was termed very good.

Monday's activities included a swine show at 11 a.m. and an auction which began at 1 p.m. Leon Werner, of Brookville, will judge the entries in the show and Col. Merlin Woodruff, of Urbana, will serve as auctioneer.

Included for sale were bred gilts, June and July farrowed open gilts and boars as well as commercial gilts in groups.

Annual Masonic inspection held at B'burg lodge

BLOOMINGBURG — The annual inspection of Bloomingburg Masonic Lodge No. 449 was held Friday. Present for the inspection were past masters of Bloomingburg and distinguished Masons as well as the inspecting officer. The lodge was in "very good" form, according to Royce H. Pauly, inspecting officer from Jamestown, who represented Royal C. Schofield, grand master of all Masons in Ohio.

An American flag was presented to the lodge by members of the Garfield Commandry of Washington C.H.

In attendance were Pauly John Coole, Michael Simpson, Leo Hines, Daniel Terhune, Judson, Roy and Daniel Thompson, Randy Watson, Jerry Raser, Forrest Stephenson, Jeffrey Thompson, Gary McConaughay, past masters, and distinguished masons.

Delbert Crouse, master in 1928, who is the oldest living past master, was one of those attending.

The Distinguished Masons included Malcolm Grady, of Williamsport, James Deyo, of Mount Sterling, James Krim, John Craig, of New Holland, and Ronald Sears, of Jeffersonville.

Routine road jobs slated

Now that the ice and snow have melted, area road crews will be able to concentrate more on routine operations than on seasonal tasks.

City street workers will be repairing some streets this week, starting with Circle Avenue, according to Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department. The street department is now receiving some of the materials for this job.

City workers will also be occupied with installing new parking meters, cleaning along Paint Creek, cleaning alleys and working on sewer lines.

Gene Fitzpatrick, superintendent of the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County, said state crews will be sealing cracks on Ohio 41, north of Jeffersonville and U.S. 62, south of Washington C.H.

Crews will also be picking up trash from along roadsides and cleaning rest areas off I-71. Some trees along Ohio 41, north of Washington C.H. are to be cut, and there will be patching of various roads, including Ohio 729, south of U.S. 35.

Cleveland notes crime decrease

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland police have reported a drop in the city's crime rate for the second consecutive year.

McEwen, who attended both the University of Miami and Ohio State University colleges of law, was appointed Washington assistant to Congressman William H. Harsha in June, 1971.

He has spoken for the conservative cause in several states, having appeared jointly at political rallies with such nationally known figures as Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. George McGovern and Gov. George Wallace; attended both the 1968 and 1972 Republican National Conventions; was a Nixon campaign staff member in Key Biscayne, Fla., and served as chairman of the "Citizens for Good Government," a committee dedicated to encouraging men of principle and integrity to seek public office.

McEwen said that he is thrilled with the support he has been receiving and promised that if elected to maintain office hours in every county so that the retired person, the farmer, the working man and all would be able to contact and express their concerns to their representative.

Impeachment rally held

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Americans were called on to "send our own messages to Washington since our representatives won't" at an "Impeach Nixon" rally Sunday.

Henry Anna, representing the Independent Voters of Ohio, an affiliate of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), said his group is "defending the rights of the American people and trying to defend the American Constitution from (President) Nixon."

The editor of The Guardian, a New York newspaper, attacked the capitalistic system. "People have come to understand that it is not the man but the system," said Irwin Silber.

Marc Lender, a member of the Committee to Throw the Bum Out, said "the ruling class is in deep, deep trouble. A blow against Nixon is a blow against them all."

The march and rally was sponsored by the Coalition to Impeach Nixon.

Coatlon man killed
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Murder charges were filed against Rebecca Cross, 27, of Columbus, by police Sunday. The woman is accused of shooting to death her estranged husband, Clemons Cross, 29.

Notre Dame ruins Bruins win streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps called the victory a "healthy win for college basketball," but UCLA's Johnny Wooden had to disagree.

"I'm sure a lot of people around the country were rooting for Notre Dame. It's only human nature to want to see the Bruins beaten," said Phelps, whose Irish team broke UCLA's 88-game winning streak with a 71-70 victory Saturday.

The Bruin coach, while playing down the importance of the streak, disputed Phelps' interpretation of the victory.

"If losing the streak was good for college basketball, I think you'd have to say having the streak was bad," said Wooden. "I think it's been one of the greatest things college basketball ever had."

Notre Dame, 10-0 on the season, scored 12 straight points in the final 3:30 to overcome a 70-59 deficit, the last two points coming on an 18-foot jumper by Dwight Clay with 28 seconds left.

In other action involving the Top 10, third-ranked North Carolina State had an easy time with North Carolina-Charlotte 104-72; No. 4 Maryland beat Navy 72-50; No. 5 North Carolina squeezed by Duke 73-71; No. 6 Marquette beat Fordham 90-74; No. 7 Providence defeated St. Joseph's, Pa., 66-62; eighth-ranked Vanderbilt trounced Auburn 96-51; and No. 10 Alabama edged Louisiana State 80-79 in overtime.

UCLA will have a chance to get even, when the Irish travel to the Bruins' Pauley Pavilion Saturday night where the defending national champions have not lost since a March 6, 1970 defeat by Southern California.

A steal by Bobby Jones with four seconds remaining and his left-handed layup at the buzzer gave North Carolina its victory at Duke. Jones wound up with 19 points and 10 rebounds for North Carolina, which saw Duke go ahead 71-70 with 2:37 left.

Maryland shook off an early 21-20 lead by Navy, going on an 18-point spree to wrap up their game. Tom McMillen scored 27 points to pace the Terps.

Lloyd Walton and reserve Rick Campbell sparked Marquette, which won its 14th victory in 15 games. Walton scored all of his 15 points in the second half, while Campbell finished with 17 points.

Reserve Joe Hassett helped Providence, scoring eight points in the final 10 minutes of the first half of Providence's game with St. Joseph's, Pa. The freshman also rallied his team with two quick buckets when he came back into the lineup in the second half after St. Joseph's had closed to 45-34.

Sophomores Jeff Fosnes and Joe Ford combined for 34 points as Vanderbilt extended its home court winning streak to 15 games. The Commodores overwhelmed Auburn, hitting 58.2 per cent from the field and opening up a lead of 47 points twice during the ballgame.

Alabama's Charlie Russell played the role of "Mr. Clutch", hitting five free throws in overtime, and enabling the Tide to hold down its share of the Southeastern Conference lead. LSU had its home court win streak ended at 13 games.

OU rips Western Michigan, 97-55

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio University trounced Mid-American Conference rival Western Michigan 97-55 Saturday to remain undefeated in league play and keep its hold on first place.

Second place Bowling Green won 71-61 to put Kent State in last place, while defending champion Miami of Ohio beat Central Michigan 83-68 to take its first conference victory of the season.

Toledo beat Wisconsin-Green Bay 55-51, Ball State downed Cleveland State 53-47 and Eastern Michigan won over Hillsdale 87-70 in nonleague play.

At Athens, Ohio, OU sophomore guard Walter Luckett and senior center Dennis Rusch combined for 47 points, while the Bobcat defense held Western Michigan scoreless for nearly five minutes midway in the first half.

Ohio held a 48-30 edge at intermission and opened the second half with six unanswered points. The Bobcats also dominated the boards, holding 62-30 edge in rebounds.

"I was pleased with our play," said Ohio coach Jim Snyder. "We worked hard and we kept hammering away. The defense was good, and things fell into place."

"But let's not be fooled by this game," Snyder added. "Western Michigan is not that bad of a ball club."

Ohio meets MAC foe Central Michigan next Saturday on the road after a Wednesday nonleague game with Cleveland State. Ohio is undefeated in league play on the road.

"They are both key road games," Snyder said. "We have the momentum

now and need to keep going. Our kids are ready."

Western Michigan coach Eldon Miller said Ohio was powerful on the boards.

"In fact, they're just devastating," he said.

"They beat us every way you could get beat—on the boards, they shot well and played good defense," Miller said.

Bowling Green and Kent State traded the lead all through the first half of their game and into the second. Then senior forward Brian Scanlan sank two 15-foot jump shots and Bowling Green didn't trail again.

The victory gave Bowling Green second place with a 3-1 conference record and a 9-4 overall record. Kent State, winless in three league outings and 7-7 overall, is in last place.

Defending champion Miami finally put all the parts together, out-shooting, out-rebounding and out-playing the Chippewas of Central Michigan.

Central trailed by only one point at halftime and stayed close for another eight. But then Miami reeled off 15 points to Central's 3, putting the game on ice.

David Elmore hit for 29 points and collected 17 rebounds to lead the Miami victory, which puts them sixth with a 1-3 league record, 5-8 overall. Central Michigan dropped to a 1-2 league record, 7-7 overall.

Third place Toledo edged Wisconsin-Green Bay 55-51 in a nip-and-tuck nonconference game. The Rockets trailed 20-24 at halftime, but took the lead in the second half.

Elsewhere in Ohio college basketball, Ohio State won its first Big Ten game in three decisions, mastering Minnesota 81-77 despite the Gophers' conference record of 21-for-21 at the foul line.

Bill Andreas' 24 points paced the Buckeye, 6-7. Minnesota, led by Rick

McCutcheon's 22 points, dropped its fourth in a row 0-3 and 6-7 records.

Host Detroit, 12-3, took Dayton, 10-4, 79-72 in overtime in a matchup of two postseason tournament hopefuls. Riley Dotson scored six of his 16 points in the extra session to destroy the Flyers. Mike Sylvester had 28 points.

Cincinnati ran its mark 11-4, pressing Farleigh Dickinson into 19 first half errors in a 96-70 rout. Lloyd Batts led the Bearcats with 18 points.

Xavier took an 89-81 exhibition setback from the Christian Athletes, despite 20 points by Pete Accetta.

Wittenberg, tenth ranked nationally in the college division, earned a first-place tie with Muskingum in the Ohio Conference. Both are 5-0.

Wittenberg established school records of 95 shots and 80 rebounds belting Oberlin 96-54. Muskingum played outside the league, taking a 56-41 decision from Davis & Elkins.

In other OC contests, Mount Union kept Ohio Wesleyan winless 99-78, Denison nudged Baldwin-Wallace 56-50 and Marietta outscored Kenyon 80-59.

In the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference, Wilmington beat Anderson 81-72, Earlham defeated Findlay 66-53 and Manchester edged Bluffton 62-58.

Top ice fishing on Sandusky Bay

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some of Ohio's easiest ice fishing is under way on Sandusky Bay and around the Lake Erie islands.

For a modest fee, a person with nothing more than an interest in catching fish can try for perch, walleye and other species in shirt-sleeve comfort.

About a dozen guides operating on South Bass Island this winter can accommodate up to 350 fishermen at a time in heated shanties with all gear and bait provided.

Similar trips can be arranged with guides working off Catawba Peninsula or on Sandusky Bay between the cities of Port Clinton and Sandusky.

Regardless of the location, guided Lake Erie ice fishing is an exercise in simplicity. All the fisherman does is fish.

Outings around the islands, for example, begin at the Port Clinton airport where, for $6 round-trip, you will be flown to South Bass.

If you're fortunate, you could make the short hop in the famous "Tin Goose," the last Ford Tri-Motor still in commercial service in America. The Goose is one of several planes the airline puts into hourly service to shuttle ice fishermen to and from South Bass.

On the island, guides provide transportation from and to the airport. On the frozen lake, you'll be taken to the shanty and back in an open-topped ice car.

The two or four-man shanties are warmed by coal stoves that are stoked and belching heat when you arrive.

Fishing lines and tackle are part of the shanties and all bait is furnished as part of the guides' package.

Fishermen bring their own lunches or, if they are guests of the island hotel, then can preorder food for delivery to the shanty.

Guides charge $7 a day per man. Reservations are recommended, especially on weekends. Overnight accommodations on South Bass are available. It is possible that a package deal including plane fare, lodging and guide service will be offered this year, according to Dave Haberman of Island Airlines.

Names of guides and more information on ice fishing off the mainland or the islands is available from Haberman at Island Airlines, Port Clinton, or from the Port Clinton Chamber of Commerce.

Winston Western 500 postponed by rain

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Foul weather that had gripped Southern California for a week finally caught up with the Winston Western 500 mile stock car race Sunday.

Rain began falling a third of the way into the $106,000 event at Riverside International Raceway and brought the season's first major outing to a halt after 156 miles.

With Grieve, who retreated to five clubs. After two passes, East — with 21 high-card points including the A-K of trumps — doubled.

This proved to be a grievous error when it turned out that the contract was absolutely indefensible! Declarer won the diamond lead with the ace, played the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, ruffed a spade, ruffed another heart on which the king fell, and gave up two trump tricks to make five clubs doubled.

At the second table, the bidding went as follows:

| | West | North | East | South |
|------|------|-------|------|-------|
| Pass | Pass | 2 NT | 3 ♣ | Pass |
| Pass | 4 ♠ | Pass | 5 ♣ | Pass |

Opening lead — six of diamonds.

This dramatic hand occurred in a playoff match to determine the team to represent the United States in the 1973 World Championship.

At the first table, Grieve (playing with Rapee) over-called two notrump with three clubs, intending to show a genuine club suit. But Rapee, justifiably or not, read three clubs as an artificial bid. When the bidding died at three notrump, Swanson passed again — this time because he thought there was a good chance of beating the contract with a club lead. This proved to be an illusion when declarer won the club queen with the king, returned the king of diamonds, and in that way romped home with nine tricks to produce a gain of 1,350 points for his team.

Her Husband Is a Laxative Nut

My husband is a laxative nut. He believes that the only way to remain healthy is to take all kinds of laxatives to "clear the system," whether one is constipated or not.

He reads your column. I hope you can help him get off his hangup.

Mrs. G. G. T., Ind.

Dear Mrs. T.:

If you go back far enough in your husband's history you will probably find that he has inherited from his parents this preoccupation with bowels, constipation and elimination.

It is difficult to break the ritualistic habits of people with such fixed ideas. Many are sure that all illnesses can be attributed to the auto-intoxication of closed bowels.

This inherited bit of misinformation is responsible for the fact that all colds and infections were once treated with purges to vigorously "clean out" the intestinal tract.

The castor oil and calomel era has gone. With it has gone, too, the obsessive need for the daily bowel movement that so many compulsive people thought was absolutely essential to good health. Modern medicine considers this a misconception.

Police check three hit-skip accidents

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported one Friday accident which left a Washington C.H. man charged with not maintaining an assured clear distance.

City police reported six weekend accidents, three of which, were of the hit-skip variety.

SHERIFF

FRIDAY, 7:20 p.m. — A car driven by Phillip S. Thornhill, 24, of 604 Albin Ave., was slightly damaged when it slid through the Flakes Ford and Creek road stop sign and into a farm fence, owned by Willard M. Bonham, Rt. 1. The car also struck a road reflector sign and Thornhill was charged with not maintaining an assured clear distance.

POLICE

SUNDAY, 7 p.m. — Moderate damage was reported to a car owned by Helen Knisley, 419 S. Fayette St., when it was struck in the rear by an unknown vehicle, while it was parked in front of her residence.

6:01 p.m. — Slight damage was incurred by two cars, one owned by Thomas D. Patrick, 18, Prairie Road and the other owned by James E. Russell, 19, Good Hope, in an accident at the Borden Burger parking lot on Columbus Avenue.

SATURDAY, 12:50 p.m. — An accident between a parked car, owned by Sarah Thompson, 1144 Campbell St., and a car driven by Dudley H. Roth, 78, New Holland, at Frisch's parking lot on Clinton Avenue, did slight damage to the Thompson auto.

A car owned by Allen L. Salvador, 2001 Heritage Court was damaged by a hitskip driver, while it was parked on Old Chillicothe Road.

6:45 p.m. — A hitskip driver did moderate damage to a car owned by Norman E. Harper, 506 E. Paint St., while it was parked in front of his residence.

1:30 p.m. — James D. Hartman, 34, Columbus, was charged with not maintaining an assured clear distance when he collided with the rear of a car driven by Glenn S. Hidy, Bloomingburg, on Columbus Avenue. Moderate damage was reported to the Hartman auto and slight damage to the Hidy vehicle.

Only routine matters on board agenda

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners dealt with a variety of routine matters Monday, meeting with several county officials.

Commissioners gave Sheriff Don Thompson the green light to draw up specifications for two new sheriff's cruisers. The cruisers will replace two cars which will have about 90,000 miles apiece on them by the time the new ones can be delivered.

Commissioners were to meet with Marion Waddle, chairman of the regional planning commission, and an engineer working with the area sewer and water district Monday afternoon.

Judge Rollo Marchant was granted a request to attend a conference of juvenile judges Jan. 29-30 in Cincinnati.

Commissioners will look over a proposed farm drainage ditch at 1 p.m. Tuesday. The ditch has been petitioned for by Dwight Creamer, and would run from Ohio 729 to Sugar Creek.

Church blaze being probed

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Newport's Fire Inspection Bureau planned today to investigate the charred ruins of the sanctuary of the Full Gospel Assembly Church.

A fire of undetermined cause swept through the building Sunday. Authorities estimated damage in excess of $75,000.

It was the second major church fire in eight days. The 72-year-old Corpus Christi Church suffered considerable damage to its roof and sacristy.

Newport Assistant Fire Chief Tom Wald said the blaze apparently broke out behind the altar.

Motorcycle rider hurt in accident

A motorcycle accident in Pan-coastburg resulted in a fractured nose for John W. Gosney, 20, of 608 High St. The accident occurred at 3:45 p.m., Sunday, while Gosney was riding in a field.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported Gosney was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

POINT OF IMPACT — Smoke billows upward from point of impact of two ships that collided on Mississippi River south of Venice, La. One of ships was carrying 18,000 tons of fuel. Ships are the freighter Baune and tanker Key Trader.

Wide variety of incidents checked by police, deputies

City police reported a stolen car which was demolished in an accident involving two other cars, a vandalism report and the theft of a stereo.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a hunting mishap which resulted in the injury of a Columbus man and a case of petty larceny.

Police said while James F. Jester, 330 N. Fayette St., sat in the Rocking Chair Inn, 428 Wilson St., at 10:39 p.m., Saturday, his car was in the process of being demolished in the 600 block of Delaware Avenue.

JESTER'S car collided with a parked car, owned by Judy Gillispie, Springfield, at a high rate of speed and forced the Gillispie auto into a second parked car, owned by Gelina Mullins, 616 Delaware Ave.

The demolished Jester car was abandoned by three white males a witness saw flee on foot. The Gillispie car incurred severe damage from the accident and the Mullins auto was moderately damaged.

Jester was contacted by police at the Rocking Chair and told what had happened. He admitted leaving his car unlocked, with the keys in it and hadn't known it had been stolen. He did not want to file charges at that time.

Police are still investigating the incident.

Weekend crashes kill 12 in Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Accidents killed 12 persons on Ohio roads over the weekend, despite rain slick pavements as warmer weather kept the snow and ice away.

LANCASTER — Richard P. Donley, 22, Lancaster, when the motorcycle he was riding crashed.

SATURDAY

COLUMBUS — Kenneth Smothers,

Solzhenitsyn ready for reprisals

MOSCOW (AP) — Alexander Solzhenitsyn, denounced as a traitor by Soviet authorities for his book "Gulag Archipelago," said today the book has fulfilled his duty to the dead.

He said he and his family are "ready for anything."

In written answers to questions submitted to him by Western newsmen, the Nobel prizewinning author refused to speculate on what the Kremlin might do to him for smuggling his history of Soviet labor camps out of Russia for publication abroad.

"I am not going to make predictions," he said. "I and my family are ready for anything. I have fulfilled my duty to the dead. It gives me relief and tranquility."

"This truth was doomed to die. It was being downtrodden, was being drowned, burned, ground to ashes. But look, it has survived, it lives, it has been printed — and nobody ever will be able to wipe it out."

Solzhenitsyn disputed charges that the book has harmed detente between the Soviet Union and the West. It is "not he who tells about committed crimes who brings harm to peace and to good relations among people and peoples, but he who committed or is committing them," he said.

Nation's crime syndicates disrupted by prosecutions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's crime syndicates are suffering from "internal disarray" because more and more of their bosses are behind bars, says the head of the Justice Department's organized crime section.

But even in prison, some underworld bosses continue to influence the illegal operations they ruled on the outside and most imprisoned gangsters return to professional crime after their release, William S. Lynch said in an interview.

"There are more of the bosses who have been beaten by prosecutive efforts. The situation in some parts of the country is pretty clearly indicative that they have been hurt by prosecution," he said. "There is internal disarray in some of its structures across the country."

He singled out New England, the Midwest, New York and to some extent the Miami area as regions where the syndicates have experienced "organizational disruption" as a result of the indictment and conviction of mob bosses.

"We have made fairly good inroads, if not substantial inroads," he continued. "No organization can withstand that kind of prosecutive pressure ... and still be an effective organization. If you keep knocking off their best people ... disrupting their lives through incarceration, disrupting if not completely cutting off communications of leaders with subordinates, you are disrupting an organization."

Lynch said he can do little more than guess how long it will take the syndicates to recover from the loss of leaders. Nor can he say precisely what the disruption has cost the syndicates in terms of lost revenue from illegal rackets.

But even in jail, Lynch said, the syndicate policy-maker "still to some extent, can function" because he can write and receive letters and talk with visitors at regular intervals.

Prison, he said, rarely is effective in persuading a professional criminal to take up a legitimate business after his release.

"You take the ordinary professional hood who serves his time, keeps his mouth shut and comes out, and you'll find he's in a very nice position," he said.

But he added that some have turned away from crime and cooperated with prosecutors who guarantee protection from physical retaliation and provide assistance in adjusting to a law-abiding life.

Popularity of Nixon drops again

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The Gallup Poll's approval rating for President Nixon again has dropped to his all-time low of 27 per cent.

The Gallup organization conducted the poll Jan. 4-7, shortly after the Internal Revenue Service announced it was re-auditing the President's recent tax returns.

Nixon's first 27 per cent approval rating in the poll came in late October, after he fired special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. In a similar poll last month, his rating was 29 per cent.

In the latest poll, 1,504 adults were asked: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Nixon is handling his job as President?"

Besides the 27 per cent approving, 63 per cent disapproved and 10 per cent expressed no opinion.

Gallup said a breakdown by party showed Republicans approved of Nixon's performance by 53 per cent. Only 11 per cent of Democrats and 26 per cent of independents polled said they approved.

Nixon's current rating is eight points below the lowest rating given the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, 35 per cent. The lowest rating for any president was the 23 per cent once given Harry S. Truman.

Murder charges filed

COALTON, Ohio (AP) — Margaret Ganey, 30, of Coalton, was killed Sunday, the Henry County sheriff's department reported. The department said Paul Smith, 39, of Coalton, was charged with aggravated murder in connection with the shooting.

Growing controversy examined

Congress ponders oil pinch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil company executives today were accused of "cheating the American public" as they appeared before a Senate panel probing the severity of the energy crisis.

The charges were made in an opening statement by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

A statement submitted under oath by Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon, the country's largest oil firm, flatly rejected the charges.

Exxon "has not fabricated or contrived to bring about the current tight energy supply situation," Baze said. "The petroleum companies have made major efforts to prevent the shortage from occurring," he said.

Ribicoff had accused the companies of using the "fright and panic" triggered by reports of severe fuel shortages "to squeeze out the small independent dealers," and of using the sharp increases in the price of foreign oil to push up the price of domestic oil.

Ribicoff called for a price freeze on petroleum products until the severity of the shortage can be determined. Ribicoff also said it was time to cut off tax breaks which he said the oil companies were using to "deprive the American treasury of approximately $3 billion a year."

He said the oil firms had misled federal energy chief William E. Simon as to the severity of the shortages.

Subcommittee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Mich., said that some of the information the companies had submitted to his staff was evasive.

Simon was scheduled to appear before the panel today, but subcommittee staff members said he was out of town and would be called to testify at a later date.

At the same time, a joint economic subcommittee continues its probe of the accuracy and reliability of the energy data furnished government agencies by the oil companies.

The Senate leadership has said that the emergency energy bill that Congress failed to pass in the final days before the month-long winter recess would have first priority when Congress returned.

But Jackson now says that doubts about the severity of fuel shortages raise "questions as to the need for legislation granting government unprecedented broad authority to allocate and ration fuels and to mandate energy conservation measures."

Passage of the bill in the days before Christmas was blocked by a filibuster conducted by Republicans and senators from oil-producing states who objected to, among other things, a provision designed to prevent the petroleum industry from earning windfall profits as a result of fuel shortages.

Senate Minority leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., who met with President Nixon Friday, indicated that the Administration wants to pass a "barebones" energy bill free of such controversial issues as excess profits. A similar Administration bid for a stripped-down version of the bill was defeated by the House just before Congress adjourned Dec. 22.

Senate sources say they expect little action before Wednesday, when Sens. Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., and Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., the chief Republican opponents of the bill, are scheduled to return from a journey to the Middle East. The House is expected to await Senate action before taking up the bill.

Nixon is to meet later this week with Senate and House leaders to press for passage of the emergency energy legislation, which would give him the authority to order gasoline rationing and other conservation measures.

Aides said the President also would discuss the question of whether the crisis is fact or fiction "because it is a matter that he understands is of concern to the American people."

Cairo newspapers reported that the Egyptian government plans to construct five tunnels beneath the canal to speed up the rebuilding and resettlement of the towns on the east side. Reconstruction Minister Osman Ahmed Osman told the papers work on the first tunnel, between Qantara East and Qantara West, would start early next month.

This official said the Syrian-Israeli process was in "a very fragile stage." He added that the situation was more complex than that on the Suez front since a comparatively small area of territory adjacent to Israel is involved and Assad's political position at home is not as secure as Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's is.

Meanwhile, the Egyptian and Israeli army chiefs met on the west bank of the Suez Canal in a driving sandstorm Sunday to discuss a timetable for the withdrawal of their troops in accordance with the agreement reached last week.

SABINA — Melvin Browning, 82, of Sabina, died at 6:10 a.m. Monday in the Eden Manor Nursing Home.

A retired garage owner and farmer, he had operated a garage in Wilmington for 33 years, and was a member of the Sabina Church of Christ.

Mr. Browning is survived by his wife, Katherine; a son, Howard, of Sabina; two daughters, Mrs. Ulan (Ramona) Humphreys, Wilmington, and Mrs. Helen Marie Gates, Owosso, Mich.; six grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Littleton Funeral Home, Sabina, with the Rev. Joe Lormor, pastor of the Sabina Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be in Sabina Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 3 until 5 p.m. and from 7 until 9 p.m. Tuesday.

150 islands involved in dispute

LONDON (AP) — Senior diplomats believe that China's expulsion of South Vietnamese forces from the disputed Paracel Islands demonstrates Peking's resolves to press its claims to about 150 islands along the Asian continental shelf.

The goal is the oil that is believed beneath the floor of the South and East China seas.

Besides South Vietnam, Japan, the Philippines and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese regime on Taiwan could challenge Peking's claims to one or another of the various island groups in the region.

A rundown of China's main claims and the contestants:

—The Paracel archipelago, known in Chinese as Hsi-Sha, or "western sands." It consists of about 20 coral islets and reefs scattered over 80 miles north to south by 90 miles east to west. Its center is about 175 miles southeast of China's Hainan Island and about 250 miles east of Da Nang, in South Vietnam. Claims to it have been lodged by China, South Vietnam and Taiwan — which Peking regards as part of the People's Republic.

China maintains its fishermen have been frequenting the isles since the 15th century as if they were offshore territories. South Vietnam claims that for centuries sovereignty was exercised by the emperors of Annam, then France as the colonial power and now by it. But Japan occupied the islands from 1939 to 1945, and the San Francisco peace treaty in 1951 recognized them as Chinese territory.

—The Spratly island group, known in Chinese as the NanShas or "southern sands." They are a cluster of shoals and islets about 300 miles west of the Philippines and nearly 1,000 miles from the Chinese mainland. The group is about 300 miles east of Vietnam. Saigon and Manila both dispute Peking's insistence that the group for centuries has been used, and occasionally occupied, by China. Peking has cited old maps and British Admiralty surveys, among other documents, in support of its claim.

The South Vietnamese recall the French building lighthouses in the Spratlys more than 40 years ago when France was running Indochina. The Philippine claim dates back to at least 1955. And the Nationalist Chinese for some time kept a naval garrison on one island as a demonstration of Chinese sovereignty.

—The Senkaku islands, or Huanxian, are a group of eight barren rocks and peaks about 150 miles northeast of Taiwan and 100 miles north of Ishigaki, in Japan's Ryukyu chain. They are situated in less than 600 feet of water and are within the area of mainland China's continental shelf, separated from the Ryukyus by the Okinawa Deep.

Contestants for ownership are China, Taiwan and Japan. The dispute flared most recently in 1970 after the Nationalist Chinese granted oil exploration rights to Pacific Gulf, the Japanese subsidiary of the American Gulf Oil Co. Japan challenged the award, Taiwan protested, and Peking entered the controversy with a declaration that the "resources of the seabed and subsoil of the seas around these islands, and of the shallow seas adjacent to other parts of China, all belong to China their owner."

U.S. nixed aid in islands battle

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese twice asked the United States 7th Fleet to intervene in the battle with the Chinese for the Paracel Islands but were turned down, official South Vietnamese sources said today.

But the informants said that U.S. planes flew reconnaissance missions over the islands today at the request of the South Vietnamese government.

The sources said an American civilian was missing on one of the islands, which were overrun by Chinese forces Sunday. He was not immediately identified, but the informants said he was a former U.S. Marine officer.

The South Vietnamese government has conceded military victory to China in their dispute over the Paracels, and called for an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council to plead its case.

Senate Watergate Committee studies future of hearings

cians have asked for a quick decision on whether to impeach President Nixon.

These developments opened a week in which the Senate Watergate Committee is expected to decide whether it would hold further public hearings on the Watergate scandal. The committee's alternative was to write its final report and disband.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., has said the hearings would resume Jan. 29, but the majority of the seven-member committee reportedly is undecided whether to continue.

Expected to join with Ervin in seeking resumption were Sens. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M. and Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga. The committee's other Democrat, Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii, is waiting for a report on staff investigations before making up his mind, his aides say.

The Washington Democrat called in the heads of major oil companies for the first hearing, along with federal energy chief William E. Simon.

The House Judiciary Committee hired staff directors during the recess and began its investigation into whether the President should be impeached before Congress' second session even started.

Associated Press interviews with more than a dozen returning congressmen indicated they had no mandate from their constituents for or against impeaching the President.

Although some congressmen already had decided how they would vote, most said they and their constituents were waiting to see what the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment investigation finds.

"It depends on what the jury brings in," said Rep. Jack F. Kemp, R-N.Y.

Rep. Bob Bergland, D-Minn., said, "If there are many more shoes dropped like the other day (disclosure of five to nine erasures of a Watergate tape) ... that kind of thing does the President great harm. It tends to sway those who felt there wasn't enough evidence to feel that's it."

House Judiciary Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., announced last month the committee would try to deliver its findings for or against impeachment by the end of April although there is skepticism it can work that fast.

Other major issues before Congress this year will be tax reform, pension reform and foreign trade.

Floods claim 17th victim in far west

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Idaho cowboys riding motorboats instead of horses roped stranded cattle and towed them out of flooded areas as most of the Pacific Northwest returned to normal today after a week of flooding.

A Red Cross spokesman in northern Idaho said cowboys were towing strays out of swamped areas with motorboats and occasionally gave the cattle artificial respiration to revive them.

No new major flooding was reported in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana or Northern California, but the National Weather Service predicted rainstorms for the region today.

Campaign spending for congressional and presidential candidates would be limited to 10 cents for each eligible voter in primaries and 15 cents in general elections.

This would restrict presidential candidates to expenditures of about $14 million in primaries and $21 million in general elections, on the basis of the latest population figures.

A bipartisan federal elections commission would be set up as an enforcement agency independent of the Justice Department. It would have the power to initiate criminal proceedings.

All these provisions are a carryover from the bill the Senate passed in July, but the public financing sections are a combination of various proposals.

McNamara sets bid for office

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Keith McNamara, 44, a Columbus lawyer and former state legislator, announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the 15th Senatorial District today.

The 15th District seat is presently held by Democratic Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy.

Theft reward offered

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A $25,000 reward will be paid for the return of $500,000 worth of rings, watches and jewels taken in a store robbery, the owner said Sunday. Police said they had no leads in the Friday heist, and suspect the four thieves may have been professionals.

"It seems the battle is finished. For the time being, we are no longer taking any action to defend the islands," Saigon's chief military spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, said. Hien claimed that eight Chinese and South Vietnamese navy ships were sunk or damaged in the battle and more than 225 South Vietnamese soldiers and sailors are missing.

He said one Vietnamese patrol craft was sunk by radar-guided missiles and the fate of the 82 crewmen was not known. One destroyer, one cutter and another patrol craft suffered light to moderate damage and returned to Da Nang on Sunday, he reported.

Hien said 11 South Vietnamese were known killed, 35 were wounded, and the 150 troops who were overrun are missing.

Two Chinese patrol craft, each with a crew of 50 to 60 men, were sunk and two others were heavily damaged, Hien claimed.

Car pool protests Daylight Time

By NORM CLARKE
Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — News reports of children being molested and children becoming victims of traffic accidents while walking to school in the dark of Daylight Savings Time distressed Mrs. Renee McAllister, a mother of two.

"When that girl got killed near here, it was the last straw," she said.

She's organized a neighborhood car pool to protest DST.

"We were 45 minutes late the first day. After I explained why, the principal was sympathetic."

Nevertheless, she's sticking to a contract she and eight other Anderson Township families — including a principal from another school — drew up. The neighborhood pact calls for the car pool to continue "until daylight catches up to the clock or until Daylight Savings Time is retracted."

She feels safer about her two young daughters, but disappointed the policy "defeats the purpose of DST. We're using gasoline we're trying to save. And by turning on porchlights, we're draining electricity."

But her concern for the welfare of school-bound children outweighs the need to conserve energy.

The combination of darkness, traffic and children is inviting disaster. I got tired of the frustration and apathy. I had to do something. The kids don't have any voices."

A fulltime student at the University of Cincinnati, the 37-year-old housewife said school officials have declined to change starting times. "They said it would be too complicated."

"I don't want to get in a fight with the school. I'm not a rabble-rouser, a militant. I've never done anything like this in my life."

"But I just don't want my kids out in the dark. I've seen busy intersections in the morning that are frightening sights."

Her anguish intensified when an 18-year-old girl was killed near Cincinnati last week when she darted in front of a pickup truck in the early morning gloom.

"That really concerned me," said Mrs. McAllister. "I had to speak up."

She said the disenchantment with Daylight Savings Time is widespread.

A recent radio survey supports her stand. WLW Radio opened phone lines for four hours to survey the area on acceptance of DST.

"It was 700 against while two voted for it," said Charles K. Murdock, WLW executive.

Opinion And Comment

Slowdown saving lives

Certain factors can be expected to counteract in some measure the safety benefits derived from lower highway speeds. The gasoline shortage will impel a growing number of people to switch to smaller cars or rely to a greater extent on bicycles and motorbikes. Such vehicles are in varying degree riskier, to those who use them, than big, heavy cars.

When all due allowance is made for such factors, however, the figures just released by the Department of Transportation remain impressive. In November, doubtless mainly because of the gas shortage, traffic fatalities went down by two per cent over most of the nation. The corresponding figure in states which had lowered their speed limits was 18.6 per cent.

That is a whopping difference. It clearly gives the lie to those who continue to maintain in the face of all evidence that speed does not play a major part in determining auto fatality rates.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Will we listen to Solzhenitsyn?

"I see," said the Foreign Minister of Ruritania, "that the publication of Alexander Solzhenitsyn's 'Gulag Archipelago' has been getting a lot of notice in America for exposing a terror that has been routine in Russia since 1918. Maybe your detente-minded politicians will begin to catch on now that Russia's greatest man of letters has figured it out mathematically that political executions under the Communists are a thousand times what they were under the Czars. When a Nobel Prize winner says something, it's likely to do."

"But really," so the Foreign Minister continued, "you Americans amaze me. You never listen to any of your home-grown prophets. I have been coming to your country ever since the early 1920s, and it has been a never-ceasing horror to me that the surest way to lose a reputation in your Establishment literary circles is to tell the truth about Communist operations.

"BACK in the early 1930s two of your Moscow correspondents, Eugene Lyons and William Henry Chamberlain, began speaking out about their disillusionment with the socialist Utopia. They wrote some books that were just as documented as Solzhenitsyn's, even though they may not have been as tragically searing.

"So what happened? Your Franklin Roosevelt decided to recognize Russia, and the New York Times played up the by-line of its Walter Duranty, whose big forte in Moscow was his ability to stroke the back of the Soviet cat the right way. The word went around in New York cocktail circles to 'get' Lyons and Chamberlain, and after that they never had a tenth of the influence that they rightfully should have had. They were bracketed with your Max Eastman as 'gangsters of the pen.'

"That's the way it has always gone in your country. Your John Dos Passos, a truly fine novelist, was an idol among the liberals when he wrote sympathetically about Communist aspirations. But when he came home from Spain in 1936 with the news that Stalinist political murders had become a routine feature of the Spanish Civil War he lost caste immediately.

"He went on living and writing for 35 years after that, but somehow he never got the credit that was due him for doing excellent biographies of Thomas Jefferson and others of your Founding Fathers' generation. He was a has-been in New York critical circles for having had the honesty and the temerity to expose the machinations of the Communists in Spain. And when he wrote a good novel about skullduggery in the labor movement in 1961 it was dismissed as the work of an old reactionary.

"I could multiply these examples many times over," so the Foreign Minister of Ruritania continued. "How many in your country know that you once had a courageous editor named Sol Levitas, who fought Stalinists both in and out of season in his weekly New Leader? Sol called himself a Socialist, but he was on to the Communists for all that. He had been Mayor of Vladivostok way back in 1918 as I remember, but he left Russia rather than endure what Lenin and Trotsky had decreed for it.

"Sol struggled to keep his magazine going all through the period of the Popular Front in the Thirties, when the liberals and the Communists were making common cause. And he never let up with his exposure of Communist methods and double talk even during the period of your 1941-45 'we're in it' with Russia's wartime honeymoon. Solzhenitsyn's detailed accounts of what happened to 200 of his friends in Communist labor camps wouldn't have surprised Sol Levitas in the least.

"FOR THAT MATTER, your Richard Nixon knew a thing or two about Communist infiltration tactics when he was a young congressman trying to break open the Hiss case. The liberals have never forgiven Nixon for what he did to expose Soviet penetration of your government. It could be that this is the source of much of the virulent hatred that continues to hound your President now that he is in trouble over Watergate.

"Well, so it has always gone," said the Foreign Minister of Ruritania. "The sure way of killing yourself in your Establishment literary circles was to say things that Solzhenitsyn has just now established as irrefutable truth.

"Will anybody make amends to your prophets? I doubt it. Democracies are never grateful, and nobody likes to listen to a person who can truthfully say 'I told you so.'"

TUESDAY, JAN. 22

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Under day's favorable influences, you should find new ambition and incentive, seek new ways to improve. Experimentation and new projects, well-managed, can advance.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

You, too, have fine aspects, but there may be some interference with plans here. Stand straight, head up! And don't jump the gun! Hard work, consistency needed.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

No outstandingly impressive opportunities indicated, yet there are hidden gems of value available which you may overlook if you are too hasty, too anxious.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Lunar influences should inspire top-flight efforts. Especially favored: Educational projects, engineering, medicine and health programs.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Planetary aspects now favor personal relationships. This is a perfect period in which to cement old friendships and encourage new acquaintances.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Mercury's position suggests the revival of old projects if still feasible, and the launching of new ones that could better your course and outlook.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

While some influences are good, you are nevertheless cautioned against misinterpretation, overstressing and getting ahead of yourself in certain areas.

Candidate raps speed limit cut

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A spokesman for William O'Neill, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, said Sunday O'Neill will oppose lowering Ohio's speed limit.

Rick Sturtevant, campaign co-chairman, said the candidate would hold a news conference at 2 p.m. Monday to announce the stand.

He said O'Neill would "advocate the State of Ohio demand documented evidence rather than presidential opinion on energy matters prior to the initiation of any statewide campaign, including lowering of speed limits, aimed at curing the alleged energy crisis."

Rural development report not specific

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four months and 18 days beyond the date required by law, the Agriculture Department has filed with Congress the government's goals for the development of rural United States.

The thoughts behind the report are basically those of Asst. Agriculture Secretary William Erwin; his deputy, Dr. James Bostic, a young scientist from North Carolina and former White House fellow; and Dr. Walter Guntharp, head of the new Rural Development Service.

Even so, the report lacks specific objectives.

A five-page introduction says the department cannot and will not state specific goals for several years, until localities finish planning for themselves.

The document, which has 85 pages of census data following the introduction, has not yet been released publicly. It was sent to the Capitol on Friday.

A key sentence says: "We believe families and communities should have a maximum role in shaping their own futures and that the role of government is to support these choices, but to avoid interfering in the process."

The report — due last Sept. 1 — was held up until Congress passed departmental appropriations, which were signed into law Nov. 7. Then it circulated around the offices of Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz's top advisers for several weeks.

Rural development subcommittee members in both houses had pressed intermittently and unsuccessfully for the report in the interim.

Those recommendations and the introduction to the statistics indicate the potential for a congressional controversy this week when the report makes the rounds.

For example, most of the subcommittee members who have been active in overseeing the Rural Development Act want quantified goals — so many new homes and new jobs in so many years — and a nationwide plan imposed on states and localities.

Alien registration

deadline is Jan. 31

CLEVELAND — S.F. Perryman, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, points out that aliens required to mail address cards to the Government have until Jan. 31 to comply.

The immigration official urged all aliens who have not complied to go to the nearest Post Office or Immigration Office and obtain the annual Alien Address Card.

Parents or legal guardians must mail the card for alien children under 14 years of age.

Perryman advised that the annual address card is required each year from all aliens except those in diplomatic status and representatives of certain international organizations. He pointed out that willful failure to comply carries serious penalties.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARPUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Wonder of wonders, someone's finally come up with an intelligent, nononsense TV study of men behind bars. It's called "Parole," it's on public TV tonight and you ought to see it.

Granted, these things usually are a drag. They either treat the inmate as some sort of weird bug, or blabber endlessly to the effect that most cons are the victims of society.

Taint so with "Parole," produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television and filmed at the Washington State Penitentiary near Walla Walla. Its approach is far more precise and revealing.

It zeroes in on parole board hearings for two convicts, one a 24-year-old logger in for burglary and two parole violations, the other a 42-year-old carpenter doing life for helping kidnap the young son of a wealthy businessman and asking $45,000 ransom.

The show poses three basic questions: When is a convict ready for parole? What happens to him if it's denied and he stays in prison? What factors weigh in the calculated gamble of parole?

The makers of "Parole" draw no conclusions. They let viewers make up their own minds. Necessary background is included in a minimum of narration by E.G. Marshall.

But reporter-producer William H. Willson has the wisdom to let his subjects speak for themselves — the convicts, those in the parole process, a guard or two, a sheriff and, very importantly, the father of the youth who was kidnapped and released unharmed.

Neither prisoner in "Parole" is what I'd call a hard-core criminal, herewith defined as a guy who for various reasons tries to make a living at crime between stays in the slammer.

But would the prisoners on this show commit another crime if set free? Would you parole either man after hearing him out, reviewing his case and weighing the effects of more jail time?

Watch the program. You'll be glad you don't have to decide.

Factors underlie economic news

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Underlying a good many of the business and economic news developments today, and bound also to influence the future of industrial society, are these factors:

—Shortages of commodities. The energy shortage is only the nucleus of the comet; it has a long, long tail. Rising demand throughout the world inevitably will place strains on the supplies of commodities.

These pressures already are showing up in national policies and prices. Realizing their power, the less developed commodity producing nations are raising prices and developing policies of restrained usage.

Argus Research Corp., which supplies much of the basic research used by the investment community, gives several reasons why demand isn't likely to decline, as some businessmen have been hoping.

First of these is the new awareness by the commodity producing nations of the power they have in a world economy in which demand outstrips supply.

Accelerating living standards throughout the world, including the less developed nations, is steadily adding to pressures on supply. So is population growth and mix.

Communist nations of Europe and elsewhere are now emphasizing consumption, after years of building their productive capacity. China, the most populous nation of all, is about to add enormously to the strain on supplies.

And throughout much of the world the population mix is changing, with the biggest growth occurring in the 25-to-35 age group, which is where consumption is heaviest. In the United States that group grew by only 500,000 during the 1950s. In the 1970s it may grow by 15 million.

—The problem of raising productivity without making work meaningless. The way the world knows best to raise output per man-hour is to mechanize and mass produce. But in so doing it forces millions into dull, unrewarding jobs.

Consequences of this show up in complaints about quality, in absenteeism and in poor worker attitudes, all of which reduce productivity and eventually or immediately lower the competitiveness of products.

—With big government monitoring big business more closely than has been the tradition in the United States, who monitors big government?

A good example was provided recently by a U.S. Chamber of Commerce publication, "Washington Report." Last September it commented:

"With little fanfare, the federal government has completely ignored its own 5.5 per cent average wage increase guidelines while the rest of us have been forced to live under the rules imposed by the federal establishment."

"... last year average pay for all federal military and civilian employees increased by 12.8 per cent, which is more than twice the 5.5 per cent guidelines that the federal wage administrators have called for. Included in this is an average increase of 10.7 per cent for employees of government enterprises."

Mrs. Case entertains Conner Women

Mrs. Robert I. Case, 204 E. Paint St., entertained members of the Conner Farm Women's Club at her home Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. R. Carlton Belt, president, opened the meeting by reading a poem about winter. Mrs. Robert Pero, chaplain, gave the devotions. The Club Creed was repeated by all. Mrs. Maurice L. Sollars, secretary-treasurer, called the roll, each member answering by stating why they enjoyed membership in the club. Mrs. Sollars also gave the treasurer's report. Members were reminded it was dues paying time. Mrs. Kenneth Bush and Mrs. Maryon Mark were appointed to the flower committee and asked the members to call them when someone was ill.

Mrs. Sollars read a letter of thanks from the Veteran's Hospital at Chillicothe for the club donation at Christmas time. Mrs. Millard H. Weidinger, program chairman for the afternoon, presented Miss Maryann E. Sharp, vocalist of Sabina, and her accompanist Mrs. Walter Stackhouse. Miss Sharp has an outstandingly beautiful soprano voice, is just 18 years of age, and a pupil of Miss

The New Holland United Methodist Young Adult Class held its monthly meeting at the church. Eighteen members and their children were present for the potluck supper. The Wesley Grace was sang prior to the supper.

The new president Mrs. Gary (Nancy) Kirk, called the meeting to order with the reading of a poem titled "This is Today".

The secretary report, given by Mrs. Ed Conrad, of the November and December meetings was approved by the class. The class also approved the treasury report given by Mrs. Don Conrad.

The past secretary, Mrs. Robert Bishop, gave a summary of last year.

Mrs. Richard Somers, gave a report of the preparations for the weekend retreat at the Lancaster Camp Ground for the week-end of Feb. 9-10.

March 28 has been set for the supper to honor the senior members of the church.

The class voted to have a "Bakeless" Bake Sale to help boost the treasury which is low due to the extensive repair work done to the beautiful stained glass windows of the church.

The class also voted to be available to do sale dinners again.

Virginia Van Der Voort, Wilmington. She has sung with the Inland Children's Chorus, Dayton, under the direction of Mr. Joseph Geiger, and has won excellent and superior ratings in state music competitions. She has been heard in many of the area churches and sings with the United Methodist Church choir in Sabina. She sang "In My Own Little Corner", "Ten Minutes Ago", "Out of My Dreams", "Blue Bird of Happiness", "Look for a Silver Linning", "Sound of Music", "Deep in My Heart", "You'll Never Walk Alone", and "Oh, My Beloved Daddy".

Mrs. Case served a dessert course to Mrs. Belt, Mrs. Orville Bush, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Robert Coffman, Mrs. Heber Deer, Mrs. Mark, Mrs. Sam B. Marting, Mrs. Barton Montgomery, Mrs. Lorain Morter, Mrs. Jean S. Nisley, Mrs. Joe Palmer, Mrs. Pero, Mrs. William D. Shepard, Mrs. Otties Smith, Mrs. Sollars, Mrs. Walter E. Cheese and Crackers
Almond Fudge Beverage

ALMOND FUDGE

Quick and easy!
6-ounce can evaporated milk
1½ cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
6½-ounce package miniature marshmallows
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups (12 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
½ cup candied cherries, halved
1 cup slivered blanched almonds, toasted

Over low heat cook milk, sugar, salt and marshmallows, stirring constantly, until marshmallows melt. Boil, stirring often, for 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add remaining ingredients and stir until chocolate is melted. Spread quickly in lightly oiled 13 by 9 by 2 inch pan. Lightly mark into 1½-inch squares. Cool completely. Cut and remove from pan. Makes 48.

Hampshire breeders elect officers

The Ohio Hampshire Swine Breeders Association opened its annual meeting and mid-winter sale at the Fairgrounds Sunday. Some 90 persons from all throughout Ohio were welcomed by John Gruber, Fayette County Agricultural Extension agent, prior to the pork smorgasbord dinner Sunday night.

Bill Powell, of Peoria, Ill., and Richard Picker, of Fort Jennings were featured speakers, and Ronald Jackson, of Powell, presented an excellent program focused on slides of Japanese farms which have been purchasing hogs from Ohio herds. Cheryl Marcum, of Grove City, the Ohio Hampshire Queen, was also in attendance.

The election of officers was held following the meeting and the three primary officers were retained from last year. Ernest Roll, of Greenfield, president; Ricker, vice president; and Jim Morehart, of Jenera, secretary-treasurer, will continue to serve in those capacities.

Daniel Worley, Mount Sterling, and Sam Brown, Jamestown, joined Don Gostomsky, of Troy, Carol Smith, of Jamestown, Otto Roll Jr., of Clarksburg, and Charles Williams, of Hilliard, on the board of directors. The two replaced L.D. Rader and Charles Andrews who had served for the past two years. Andrews, however, retains his post as a national director, and will continue to represent Ohio.

Turnout for the first day's activities was termed very good.

Monday's activities included a swine show at 11 a.m. and an auction which began at 1 p.m. Leon Werner, of Brookville, will judge the entries in the show and Col. Merlin Woodruff, of Urbana, will serve as auctioneer.

Included for sale were bred gilts, June and July farrowed open gilts and boars as well as commercial gilts in groups.

Annual Masonic inspection held at B'burg lodge

BLOOMINGBURG — The annual inspection of Bloomingburg Masonic Lodge No. 449 was held Friday. Present for the inspection were past masters of Bloomingburg and distinguished Masons as well as the inspecting officer. The lodge was in "very good" form, according to Royce L. Pauilly, inspecting officer from Jamestown, who represented Royal C. Schofield, grand master of all Masons in Ohio.

An American flag was presented to the lodge by members of the Garfield Commandery of Washington C.H.

In attendance were Pauilly, John Coole, Michael Simpson, Leo Hines, Daniel Terhune, Judson, Roy and Daniel Thompson, Randy Watson, Jerry Raser, Forrest Stephenson, Jeffrey Thompson, Gary McConaughay, past masters, and distinguished masons.

Delbert Crouse, master in 1928, who is the oldest living past master, was one of those attending.

The Distinguished Masons included Malcolm Grady, of Williamsport, James Deyo, of Mount Sterling, James Krim, John Craig, of New Holland, and Ronald Sears, of Jeffersonville.

King son speaker at church

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — "My dream is that my father's dream will be continued," said 16-year-old Martin Luther King III Sunday at a packed church observance held in memory of his father.

Young King attended at the invitation of Dr. L. Venable Booth, pastor of the Zion Baptist Church, who was a friend of his father's years before the civil rights leader became a national figure.

The youth quoted excerpts from his father's 1963 "I Have A Dream" speech made from the Washington Monument.

He repeated his father's words about the time "when my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin, but by the content of their character."

His father would have turned 45 last week. He was killed by an assassin April 4, 1968.

Cincinnati's first black mayor Theodore M. Berry presented the youth with a proclamation making Jan. 15-20 "Martin Luther King Jr. Week." Berry gave the youth two keys to the city—one for his mother and another for his grandmother.

BOB McEWEN

Hillsboro area man candidate for House seat

Bob McEwen, a Republican and lifelong resident of Hillsboro, today announced his candidacy for the office of state representative from Ohio's 77th House District, subject to the May primary election.

McEwen, who attended both the University of Miami and Ohio State University colleges of law, was appointed Washington assistant to Congressman William H. Harsha in June, 1971.

He has spoken for the conservative cause in several states, having appeared jointly at political rallies with such nationally known figures as Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. George McGovern and Gov. George Wallace; attended both the 1968 and 1972 Republican National Conventions; was a Nixon campaign staff member in Key Biscayne, Fla., and served as chairman of the "Citizens for Good Government," a committee dedicated to encouraging men of principle and integrity to seek public office.

McEwen said that he is thrilled with the support he has been receiving and promised that if elected to maintain office hours in every county so that the retired person, the farmer, the working man and all would be able to contact and express their concerns to their representative.

The 77th District is comprised of Concord, Green, Jasper, Jefferson and Union townships plus Washington C.H. in Fayette County, all of Madison County, six townships including Wilmington in Clinton County and seven townships including Greenfield, Hillsboro and Leesburg in Highland County.

Leader of pen riots faces charges again

MOUNT GILEAD, Ohio (AP) — Richard C. "Red" Armstrong, a leader of the 1968 Ohio Penitentiary riots and an organizer of the Columbus Prisoners Solidarity Committee, has been bound over to the Morrow County grand jury on burglary charges. Armstrong was arrested in connection with an auto store robbery in Cardington, Ohio, the sheriff's office said.

Routine road jobs slated

Now that the ice and snow have melted, area road crews will be able to concentrate more on routine operations than on seasonal tasks.

City street workers will be repairing some streets this week, starting with Circle Avenue, according to Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department. The street department is now receiving some of the materials for this job.

City workers will also be occupied with installing new parking meters, cleaning along Paint Creek, cleaning alleys and working on sewer lines.

Gene Fitzpatrick, superintendent of the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County, said state crews will be sealing cracks on Ohio 41, north of Jeffersonville and U.S. 62, south of Washington C.H.

Crews will also be picking up trash from along roadsides and cleaning rest areas off I-71. Some trees along Ohio 41, north of Washington C.H. are to be cut, and there will be patching of various roads, including Ohio 729, south of U.S. 35.

Cleveland notes crime decrease

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland police have reported a drop in the city's crime rate for the second consecutive year.

Police department crime statistics show that criminal activity dropped 14.4 per cent in 1973. Almost 15,000 fewer criminal offenses took place in 1973 than in 1972.

Impeachment rally held

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Americans were called on to "send our own messages to Washington since our representatives won't" at an "Impeach Nixon" rally Sunday.

Henry Anna, representing the Independent Voters of Ohio, an affiliate of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), said his group is "defending the rights of the American people and trying to defend the American Constitution from (President) Nixon."

The editor of The Guardian, a New York newspaper, attacked the capitalistic system. "People have come to understand that it is not the man but the system," said Irwin Silber.

Marc Lender, a member of the Committee to Throw the Bum Out, said

"the ruling class is in deep, deep trouble. A blow against Nixon is a blow against them all."

The march and rally was sponsored by the Coalition to Impeach Nixon.

Coatlon man killed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Murder charges were filed against Rebecca Cross, 27, of Columbus, by police Sunday. The woman is accused of shooting to death her estranged husband, Clemons Cross, 29.

Petitions circulated for governorship

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gubernatorial petitions began to circulate last week for Ann Payne, a Columbus mother of four, running as an independent in this year's election. Mrs. Payne will represent the American Independent Party, which because of election law cannot place a candidate on the ballot.

Dr. Donald E. Babcock of Bay Village will be the party's candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Notre Dame ruins Bruins win streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps called the victory a "healthy win for college basketball," but UCLA's Johnny Wooden had to disagree.

"I'm sure a lot of people around the country were rooting for Notre Dame. It's only human nature to want to see the Bruins beaten," said Phelps, whose Irish team broke UCLA's 88-game winning streak with a 71-70 victory Saturday.

The Bruin coach, while playing down the importance of the streak, disputed Phelps' interpretation of the victory.

"If losing the streak was good for college basketball, I think you'd have to say having the streak was bad," said Wooden. "I think it's been one of the greatest things college basketball ever had."

Notre Dame, 10-0 on the season, scored 12 straight points in the final 3:30 to overcome a 70-59 deficit, the last two points coming on an 18-foot jumper by Dwight Clay with 28 seconds left.

Boilermakers, Michigan clash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Purdue and Michigan, both sporting perfect records in the Big Ten basketball race, clash at West Lafayette Monday night and Boilermaker Coach Fred Schaus flatly admits his team has the advantage.

Schaus expressed his confidence after his Boilermakers boosted their conference record to 4-0 Saturday with an 89-76 victory over Northwestern.

"They are the ones who have to travel," said Schaus. "We match up well against each other. They're very physical, more so than last year."

Coach Johnny Orr and the Michigan Wolverines had no time to think about Purdue Saturday as they celebrated an 84-82 victory over rival Michigan State on C.J. Kuepc's basket with one second left.

Kuepc hit his 20-foot jumper seconds after Tom McGill of Michigan State had missed a free throw and Michigan snared the rebound to set up the winning basket.

"I'll never forget that shot as long as an easy time with North Carolina-Charlotte 104-72; No. 4 Maryland beat Navy 72-50; No. 5 North Carolina squeezed by Duke 73-71; No. 6 Marquette beat Fordham 90-74; No. 7 Providence defeated St. Joseph's, Pa., 67-62; eighth-ranked Vanderbilt trounced Auburn 96-51; and No. 10 Alabama edged Louisiana State 80-79 in overtime.

UCLA will have a chance to get even, when the Irish travel to the Bruins' Pauley Pavilion Saturday night where the defending national champions have not lost since a March 6, 1970 defeat by Southern California.

A steal by Bobby Jones with four seconds remaining and his left-handed layup at the buzzer gave North Carolina its victory at Duke. Jones wound up with 19 points and 10 rebounds for North Carolina, which saw Duke go ahead 71-70 with 2:37 left.

Maryland shook off an early 21-20 lead by Navy, going on an 18-point spree to wrap up their game. Tom McMillen scored 27 points to pace the Terps.

Lloyd Walton and reserve Rick Campbell sparked Marquette, which won its 14th victory in 15 games. Walton scored all of his 15 points in the second half, while Campbell finished with 17 points.

Reserve Joe Hassett helped Providence, scoring eight points in the final 10 minutes of the first half of Providence's game with St. Joseph's, Pa. The freshman also rallied his team with two quick buckets when he came back into the lineup in the second half after St. Joseph's had closed to 45-34.

Sophomores Jeff Fosnes and Joe Ford combined for 34 points as Vanderbilt extended its home court winning streak to 15 games. The Commodores overwhelmed Auburn, hitting 58.2 percent from the field and opening up a lead of 47 points twice during the ballgame.

Alabama's Charlie Russell played the role of "Mr. Clutch", hitting five free throws in overtime, and enabling the Tide to hold down its share of the Southeastern Conference lead. LSU had its home court win streak ended at 13 games.

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Miami of Ohio's new football coach Dick Crum envisions building a multi-threat offense to go along with the nationally-ranked defensive teams he's molded.

"I think I know what offenses give the defense the most headaches," said the 39-year-old Ohio native.

Crum was named Sunday to succeed the departed Bill Mallory, ending a whirlwind search for a successor. Before leaving for his new job last week as head coach at the University of Colorado, Mallory personally recommended Crum for the $18,000-a-year post.

Crum becomes the first non-Miami alumnus to take the prestigious post since 1949 when Woody Hayes was awarded the position.

The school has built a reputation as "Cradle of Coaches" and five of the last six football coaches presently hold major college head coaching jobs. Three others headed National Football League teams last year.

Miami President Phillip R. Shriver compared Crum to one of Miami's most esteemed graduates.

"As a student of the game of football," said Shriver, "he could become a second Paul Brown." Brown, a former quarterback at Miami, is considered one of football's innovative forces. Now coach of the Cincinnati Bengals, he's heading toward his 40th year of coaching.

The Spartans are now 2-2 in the Big Ten and their two defeats have come on a combined total of four points to Purdue and Michigan.

Indiana, Wisconsin and Ohio State all were victorious Saturday. Indiana defeated Iowa 55-51, Wisconsin slugged Illinois 101-75 and Ohio State left Minnesota as the only team without a conference triumph by dropping the Gophers 81-77.

Kuepc hit his 20-foot jumper seconds after Tom McGill of Michigan State had missed a free throw and Michigan snared the rebound to set up the winning basket.

Michigan, No. 14, scored a dramatic 84-82 victory over Michigan State as C.J. Kupec scored with one second remaining. Kupec's 20-footer came seconds after Tom McGill missed a free throw and Michigan got the rebound to set up the winning basket.

New Mexico, slumping badly after a good early season effort, lost 78-71 to Texas-El Paso. It was the No. 15 Lobos' third straight Western Athletic Conference loss and came after Gus Bailey had tallied 19 points for the winners.

Junior Bridgeman fired in 25 points to give Louisville a 94-81 victory over Memphis State. The lead changed hands 12 times in the first half before No. 16 Louisville pulled out to a 48-40 lead at halftime.

Kansas State held off a comeback attempt by No. 18 Missouri to win 70-67 as guard Len Kruger scored 20 points. Kansas State's zone defense held the Tigers scoreless the first 7 1/2 minutes of the second half, allowing the Wildcats to build a 16-point lead.

No. 19 Wisconsin, with Kim Hughes scoring 22 points, defeated Illinois 101-75, while No. 20 Cincinnati swamped Fairleigh Dickinson 96-70.

OU rips Western Michigan, 97-55

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio University trounced Mid-American Conference rival Western Michigan 97-55 Saturday to remain undefeated in league play and keep its hold on first place.

Second place Bowling Green won 71-61 to put Kent State in last place, while defending champion Miami of Ohio beat Central Michigan 83-68 to take its first conference victory of the season.

Toledo beat Wisconsin-Green Bay 55-51, Ball State downed Cleveland State 53-57 and Eastern Michigan won over Hillsdale 87-70 in nonleague play.

At Athens, Ohio, OU sophomore guard Walter Luckett and senior center Dennis Rusch combined for 47 points, while the Bobcat defense held Western Michigan scoreless for nearly five minutes midway in the first half.

Ohio held a 48-30 edge at intermission and opened the second half with six unanswered points. The Bobcats also dominated the boards, holding 62-30 edge in rebounds.

"I was pleased with our play," said Ohio coach Jim Snyder. "We worked hard and we kept hammering away. The defense was good, and things fell into place."

"But let's not be fooled by this game," Snyder added. "Western Michigan is not that bad of a ball club."

Ohio meets MAC foe Central Michigan next Saturday on the road after a Wednesday nonleague game with Cleveland State. Ohio is undefeated in league play on the road.

"They are both key road games," Snyder said. "We have the momentum

now and need to keep going. Our kids are ready."

Western Michigan coach Eldon Miller said Ohio was powerful on the boards.

"In fact, they're just devastating," he said.

"They beat us every way you could get beat—on the boards, they shot well and played good defense," Miller said.

Bowling Green and Kent State traded the lead all through the first half of their game and into the second. Then senior forward Brian Scanlan sank two 15-foot jump shots and Bowling Green didn't trail again.

The victory gave Bowling Green second place with a 3-1 conference record and a 9-4 overall record. Kent State, winless in three league outings and 7-7 overall, is in last place.

Defending champion Miami finally put all the parts together, out-shooting, out-rebounding and out-playing the Chippewas of Central Michigan.

Central trailed by only one point at halftime and stayed close for another eight. But then Miami reeled off 15 points to Central's 3, putting the game on ice.

David Elmore hit for 29 points and collected 17 rebounds to lead the Miami victory, which puts them sixth with a 1-3 league record, 5-8 overall. Central Michigan dropped to a 1-2 league record, 7-7 overall.

Third place Toledo edged Wisconsin-Green Bay 55-51 in a nip-and-tuck nonconference game. The Rockets trailed 20-24 at halftime, but took the lead in the second half.

Elsewhere in Ohio college basketball, Ohio State won its first Big Ten game in three decisions, mastering Minnesota 81-72 despite the Gophers' conference record of 21-for-21 at the foul line.

Bill Andreas' 24 points paced the Buckeye, 6-7. Minnesota, led by Rick

McCutcheon's 22 points, dropped its fourth in a row 0-3 and 6-7 records.

Host Detroit, 12-3, took Dayton, 10-4, 79-72 in overtime in a matchup of two postseason tournament hopefuls. Riley Dotson scored six of his 16 points in the extra session to destroy the Flyers. Mike Sylvester had 29 points.

Cincinnati ran its mark 11-4, pressing Farleigh Dickinson into 19 first half errors in a 96-70 rout. Lloyd Battie led the Bearcats with 18 points.

Xavier took an 89-81 exhibition setback from the Christian Athletes, despite 20 points by Pete Accetta.

Wittenberg, tenth ranked nationally in the college division, earned a first-place tie with Muskingum in the Ohio Conference. Both are 5-0.

Wittenberg established school records of 95 shots and 80 rebounds belting Oberlin 96-54. Muskingum played outside the league, taking a 56-41 decision from Davis & Elkins.

In other OC contests, Mount Union kept Ohio Wesleyan winless 99-78, Denison nudged Baldwin-Wallace 56-50 and Marietta outscored Kenyon 80-59.

In the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference, Wilmington beat Anderson 81-72, Earlham defeated Findlay 66-53 and Manchester edged Bluffton 62-58.

Top ice fishing on Sandusky Bay

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some of Ohio's easiest ice fishing is under way on Sandusky Bay and around the Lake Erie islands.

For a modest fee, a person with nothing more than an interest in catching fish can try for perch, walleye and other species in shirt-sleeve comfort.

About a dozen guides operating on South Bass Island this winter can accommodate up to 350 fishermen at a time in heated shanties with all gear and bait provided.

Similar trips can be arranged with guides working off Catawba Peninsula or on Sandusky Bay between the cities of Port Clinton and Sandusky.

Regardless of the location, guided Lake Erie ice fishing is an exercise in simplicity. All the fisherman does is fish.

Outings around the islands, for example, begin at the Port Clinton airport where, for $6 round-trip, you will be flown to South Bass.

If you're fortunate, you could make the short hop in the famous "Tin Goose," the last Ford Tri-Motor still in commercial service in America. The Goose is one of several planes the airline puts into hourly service to shuttle ice fishermen to and from South Bass.

On the island, guides provide transportation from and to the airport. On the frozen lake, you'll be taken to the shanty and back in an open-topped ice car.

The two or four-man shanties are warmed by coal stoves that are stoked and belching heat when you arrive.

Fishing lines and tackle are part of the shanties and all bait is furnished as part of the guides' package.

Fishermen bring their own lunches or, if they are guests of the island hotel, then can preorder food for delivery to the shanty.

Guides charge $7 a day per man. Reservations are recommended, especially on weekends. Overnight accommodations on South Bass are available. It is possible that a package deal including plane fare, lodging and guide service will be offered this year, according to Dave Haberman of Island Airlines.

Names of guides and more information on ice fishing off the mainland or the islands is available from Haberman at Island Airlines, Port Clinton, or from the Port Clinton Chamber of Commerce.

Winston Western 500

postponed by rain

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Foul weather that had gripped Southern California for a week finally caught up with the Winston Western 500 mile stock car race Sunday.

Rain began falling a third of the way into the $106,000 event at Riverside International Raceway and brought the season's first major outing to a halt after 156 miles.

'Bellehop' plans management career

According to Diana's immediate boss, Tom Sokol, 23, of Hawthorne, the bell captain and a four-year veteran at the hotel, "Bellhopping is the stepping stone to management."

DIANA has found her duties, aside from a stepping stone, a veritable course in psychology, particularly male.

"Men have very sensitive egos. They're always trying to prove they are a man. They can't relax and feel good about themselves."

Although she has a hand cart on which to put luggage, some men won't let her lift a bag, she said, after their initial astonishment at being served by a woman bellhop. She was amused by one male guest who said he'd carry his own bags and offered to tote her too.

WOMEN ARE "pretty indifferent" to her role, she said. She's come to a generalization about women in her study of hotel guests. "I think women want respect most of all."

When the bell rings, Diana said, she doesn't hop, skip or jump. "I saunter."

"The type of people I see every day, I don't think they are too happy in life. They are too caught up in their work. They never have time to sit down and relax. They're all up tight."

She's the oldest of five children of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Martin and comes from a home that resounds with music. Her father works in television but was a professional singer and now teaches it. Her mother, the

SHE JOINED the hotel staff in August 1972 after studying psychology at Findly College in Ohio and Monmouth College in New Jersey. She was a waitress in the hotel dining room until this past September when, according to Diana, the hotel's personnel manager decided she should have bellhop experience.

"Working as a waitress had aroused my interest in hotel management," said Diana, who plans to return to college, this time Ramapo College, for more psychology study.

She's the oldest of five children of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Martin and comes from a home that resounds with music. Her father works in television but was a professional singer and now teaches it. Her mother, the

she said bellhop John Patrice, 23, of Clifton. "She carries her load evenly."

"I would say all the guys are falling in love with her," said Sokol.

THEY'RE "brotherly," according to Diana. "If I'm in a room too long they come running."

"We keep an eye on her," said Sokol. "You never know."

But Diana said not one male guest has been fresh so far. "They've all acted very fatherly to me."

How would she handle a fresh, unfatherly type, making a pass?

"I'd try to push him. Then I guess I'd use the old knee."

with Grieve, who retreated to five clubs. After two passes, East — with 21 high-card points including the A-K of trumps — doubled.

This proved to be a grievous error when it turned out that the contract was absolutely indefensible! Declarer won the diamond lead with the ace, played the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, ruffed a spade, ruffed another heart on which the king fell, and gave up two trump tricks to make five clubs doubled.

At the second table, the bidding went as follows:

| West | North | East | South |
|------|-------|------|-------|
| Pass | Pass | 2 NT | 3 |
| Pass | 4 ♠ | Pass | 5 ♣ |
| Pass | Pass | Dble | |

Opening lead — six of diamonds.

This dramatic hand occurred in a playoff match to determine the team to represent the United States in the 1973 World Championship.

At the first table, Grieve (playing with Rapee) overcalled two notrump with three clubs, intending to show a genuine club suit. But Rapee, justifiably or not, read three clubs as an artificial bid (the so-called Landy convention) showing exceptional length in both majors. Accordingly, he jumped to four spades. This response did not sit well

Swanson, playing with Soloway, was South at this table and elected to pass two notrump because he, also, was playing the Landy convention and knew that North would read three clubs as an artificial bid.

When the bidding died at three notrump, Swanson passed again — this time because he thought there was a good chance of beating the contract with a club lead. This proved to be an illusion when declarer won the club queen with the king, returned the king of diamonds, and in that way romped home with nine tricks to produce a gain of 1,350 points for his team.

work regularity is often responsible for the neurotic laxative habit. Such a habit may persist, as it apparently has in the case of your husband.

It takes a great deal of inconsistent re-education to convince fixed personalities to give up the ideas they so tenaciously hold about constipation and laxatives.

You must prevent your husband's false notions from being transmitted to your children. Proper diet, plenty of water and good exercise are the best cathartics your children can take.

I have a method for stopping painful leg cramps. I would like to share it with you and your readers.

Instead of thrashing out of bed and standing on a cold floor to relieve the cramp in the calves of my legs, I pinch the inside of my nostrils very tightly. The cramp stops immediately.

Mrs. E. M., Nev.

Dear Mrs. T.: It certainly is worth a try.

Even though I cannot see an obvious connection between the two, the body is a strange computer whose actions are not always easily explained.

Only routine matters on board agenda

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners dealt with a variety of routine matters Monday, meeting with several county officials.

Commissioners gave Sheriff Don Thompson the green light to draw up specifications for two new sheriff's cruisers. The cruisers will replace two cars which will have about 90,000 miles apiece on them by the time the new ones can be delivered.

Commissioners were to meet with Marion Waddle, chairman of the regional planning commission, and an engineer working with the area sewer and water district Monday afternoon.

Judge Rollo Marchant was granted a request to attend a conference of juvenile judges Jan. 29-30 in Cincinnati.

Commissioners will look over a proposed farm drainage ditch at 1 p.m. Tuesday. The ditch has been petitioned for by Dwight Creamer, and would run from Ohio 729 to Sugar Creek.

Church blaze being probed

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Newport's Fire Inspection Bureau planned today to investigate the charred ruins of the sanctuary of the Full Gospel Assembly Church.

A fire of undetermined cause swept through the building Sunday. Authorities estimated damage in excess of $75,000.

It was the second major church fire in eight days. The 72-year-old Corpus Christi Church suffered considerable damage to its roof and sacristy.

Newport Assistant Fire Chief Tom Wald said the blaze apparently broke out behind the altar.

Motorcycle rider hurt in accident

A motorcycle accident in Pan-coastburg resulted in a fractured nose for John W. Gosney, 20, of 608 High St. The accident occurred at 3:45 p.m., Sunday, while Gosney was riding in a field.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported Gosney was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

POINT OF IMPACT — Smoke billows upward from point of impact of two ships that collided on Mississippi River south of Venice, La. One of ships was carrying 18,000 tons of fuel. Ships are the freighter Baune and tanker Key Trader.

Wide variety of incidents checked by police, deputies

City police reported a stolen car which was demolished in an accident involving two other cars, a vandalism report and the theft of a stereo.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a hunting mishap which resulted in the injury of a Columbus man and a case of petty larceny.

Police said while James F. Jester, 330 N. Fayette St., sat in the Rocking Chair Inn, 428 Wilson St., at 10:39 p.m. Saturday, his car was in the process of being demolished in the 600 block of Delaware Avenue.

JESTER's car collided with a parked car, owned by Judy Gillispie, Springfield, at a high rate of speed and forced the Gillispie auto into a second parked car, owned by Gelina Mullins, 616 Delaware Ave.

The demolished Jester car was abandoned by three white males a witness saw flee on foot. The Hillispie car incurred severe damage from the accident and the Mullins auto was moderately damaged.

Jester was contacted by police at the Rocking Chair and told what had happened. He admitted leaving his car unlocked, with the keys in it and hadn't known it had been stolen. He did not want to file charges at that time.

Police are still investigating the incident.

It was the second major church fire in eight days. The 72-year-old Corpus Christi Church suffered considerable damage to its roof and sacristy.

Newport Assistant Fire Chief Tom Wald said the blaze apparently broke out behind the altar.
